INTRODUCTION

California is the most populous state in the nation and its public sector ranks as the largest. To effectively communicate with the many levels of government, a comprehensive, all-inclusive directory is of vital importance to the general public and the private business sector of California.

The Public Sector California has been designed to fill this need. It includes listings for state government encompassing the executive, legislative and judicial branches; municipal government, including higher education and school districts; U.S. government in California; and appendixes which provide an overview of California history, population statistics, district maps and a guide to doing business with government.

Information on the state executive branch was obtained from a variety of sources including the individual agencies themselves. Legislative branch information was provided by the State Assembly and State Senate with legislative map information provided by the California Supreme Court. Judicial submissions were made by various court offices. Municipal and county government information was obtained by contacting each municipality and county individually. Material was also provided by the Office of the Secretary of State and the Office of the State Controller. Population data was obtained from the U.S. Bureau of the Census and the Demographic Research Unit of the Department of Finance. It reflects the 2010 Census.

I would like to thank all those government employees and Public Information Officers at all levels of state government whose assistance and cooperation were indispensable to the high quality of the 13th edition of the Public Sector California.

The Public Sector California has been designed to provide you with easy access to information by using alphabetical listings of agencies or governmental subdivisions for most sections of the book. In addition, there are indexes to material at the beginning of sections; and a general index at the back of the book.

While every effort has been made to provide updated information on the various levels of government, it must be recognized that government at all levels is in a constant state of change through continuous new appointments, retirements, deaths, elections, and reorganizations. The information contained in this directory is as current as publishing deadlines will permit.

Please forward any suggestions or comments toward making the Public Sector California more accessible and complete to:

GEOGRAPHICAL OVERVIEW

The State of California is located on the Pacific coast of the continental United States. It is bounded by Mexico in the south, the states of Arizona and Nevada on the east, and Oregon to the north. It extends for 800 miles from north to south and at its widest point, 250 miles from west to east.

California can be divided into five physiographic regions: the northern uplands containing the Klamath Mountains; the southern extension of the Cascade Range and the Modoc Plateau; the Sierra Nevada range which runs north to south for 450 miles and achieves altitudes of over 14,000 feet.; the Central Valley formed by erosional activity of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers and their tributaries which extends north to south for 450 miles; the coastal mountains extending north to south for 500 miles; and the southern deserts which occupy the southern quarter of the state. The highest point in the state and of the continental United States is Mount Whitney at 14,494 feet. The lowest point in the state and nation is Death Valley at 286 feet below sea level.

Because of the wide variety of its physiographic features and its vast expanse from north to south, the climate of the state is of a greatly varied nature. A large percentage of the state's climate could be classified as Mediterranean with generally warm, dry summers and moist, mild winters. The mountain areas have an alpine climate, often with heavy snowfall during the winter. The southeastern section experiences a desert climate with mild winters and extremely warm summers often reaching highs of over 100 degrees Fahrenheit. The coastal areas where there is the largest concentration of the state's population experience mild, foggy summers tempered by the warm currents of the Pacific Ocean. The average July maximum temperatures range from 60 degrees in Eureka to 107 degrees in Imperial.

The economy of the state is based on agriculture and manufacturing. California ranks above many nations in the total value of goods produced. It is the nation's largest producer of agricultural products. It ranks first in the production of almonds, broccoli, dairy products, dates, figs, flowers and nursery products, lemons, grapes, lettuce, peaches, plums, strawberries, tomatoes, and walnuts. Spurred by World War II, the industrial base of the state was expanded by shipbuilding and aircraft manufacturing. During the postwar period, aerospace industries and data processing equipment and related products have become prominent. California's civilian labor force averages 18,325,600 workers. In 2010, the unemployment rate increased to 12.4 percent, up from 7.1 percent in 2008. The gross state product for 2010 was $1.94 trillion, making California to the ninth largest economy in the world.

California is rich in natural resources such as timber, petroleum, natural gas, and a vast array of minerals. Forests cover 37,700,000 acres of the state. In petroleum and natural gas it ranks third in total U.S. production. The state has a greater variety of minerals than any other state in the union and leads in the production of many of them.

With a population of just over 38 million people, California is the most populous state in the nation. Since the mid-nineteenth century the state's population has doubled on an average of once every two decades. The state contains a wide ethnic mixture with whites making up 39.7 percent of the population; Hispanics 38.1 percent; Asians and Pacific Islanders 14.1 percent; Blacks 6.6 percent; and Native Americans 1.7 percent.

SYMBOLS OF CALIFORNIA STATEHOOD

The Great Seal

The design for the Great Seal of the State of California was adopted at the Constitutional Convention of 1849. Thirty-one stars are displayed, one for each state which comprised the Union, following the admission of California in 1850. Beneath them appears the motto, EUREKA! The awesome peaks of the Sierra Nevada stand for the grandeur of nature. Shipping on San Francisco Bay typifies commerce. A miner laboring with pick, rocker and pan represents industry. Agricultural wealth is seen in a sheaf of wheat and clusters of grapes. Keeping watch over this tableau is the armored figure of Minerva who, in classical mythology, was goddess of the arts and sciences, wise in peace and war. Like the political birth of California, she was born full grown from the brain of Jupiter, father of the gods and guardian of law and order. At her feet a grizzly bear, independent and formidable, symbolizes the State of California.

State Motto

“Eureka” appears on the Great Seal of the State. It is a Greek word meaning “I have found it” referring, originally, to the discovery of gold.

State Nickname

The Golden State, appropriate because modern California’s development and remarkable prosperity began with the discovery of gold.

State Colors

Blue and Gold ribbons (Yale blue and golden yellow) are used with the Great Seal. They are also the colors of the University of California.

State Animal

The Grizzly Bear (Ursus horribilis californicus) appears on the State Flag and the Great Seal. A bear frequently symbolizes California in political cartoons. Now extinct in California, it was a particularly large, fierce and formidable animal.

State Bird

The California Valley Quail (Lophortyx californica). Found throughout the State, it is a prized game bird noted for its hardiness and adaptability.

State Dance

The West Coast Swing Dance, related to the Swing, Whip, or Jitterbug, was developed in the 1930’s.

State Fife and Drum Band

The California Consolidated Drum Band was designated as the official State Fife and Drum Corps in 1997.

State Fish

The California Golden Trout (Salmo gairdneri) is native to no other state. It is found only in the icy streams of the high Sierras.

State Flag

The Bear Flag was first raised in 1846, by American settlers during an uprising against rule from Mexico. Although their California Republic was short lived, its flag remains in use as a symbol of Californians’ love for freedom in the state. The flag was adopted by the state in 1911.

State Flower

The Golden Poppy (Eschscholtzia californica) can be found blooming in some part of the state throughout the year. April 6th is California Poppy Day.

State Fossil

The Saber-toothed Cat (Smilodon californicus) was official adopted as the official State Fossil in 1973. Shorter than the modern mountain lion, this carnivorous cat was very common in California around 11,000 to 10,000 years ago.

State Gemstone

Benitoite was officially adopted as the State Gemstone in 1985. Discovered in the San Benito River, the gem is extremely rare and ranges in color from a light blue to a violet shade.

State Gold Rush Ghost Town

Bodie, found in the Bodie Hills east of the Sierra Nevada mountains in Mono County, was designated as the official California State Gold Rush Ghost Town in 2002. Named a National Historic Site in 1962, it once was home to more than 10,000 people, but now is preserved in a state of arrested decay.

State Grass

Nassella pulchra, of Purple needlegrass, was adopted as the official State Grass in 2004.

State Historical Society

The California Historical Society, established in 1871 and headquartered in San Francisco, was designated the official California State Historical Society in 1979.

State Insect

The California Dog-face Butterfly (Zerene eurydice) is found only in California. The male has a distinct silhouette of a yellow dog’s head on its wings.

State Marine Fish

The Garibaldi (Hypsypops rubicundus) is a golden orange fish approximately 14 inches in length that is most common in the shallow waters off the Southern California coast. When disturbed, these fish emit a thumping sound audible by divers.

State Marine Mammal

The California Gray Whale (Eschrichtius gibbosus). Pods of these creatures can be seen along California’s coast making their annual, 14,000 mile migration from the Arctic to the lagoons of Baja California and back.

State Mineral

Native gold. This state has produced more gold than any other in the Union, and it can still be panned from her stream beds.

State Prehistoric Artifact

The chipped stone bear, discovered at an archaeological dig site in San Diego County in 1985, is a small stone object fashioned from volcanic rock measuring about 2 1/2 by 1 1/2 inches that resembles a walking bear. Legislature named it a state symbol in 1991.

State Quarter

The California Quarter was issued on January 31, 2005 by the United States Mint as part of their 50 State Quarters Program. The coin depicts naturalist and conservationist John Muir admiring Yosemite Valley's monolithic Half Dome while a California condor soars overhead. The coin bears the inscriptions "California," "John Muir," "Yosemite Valley" and "1850."

State Reptile

The desert tortoise (Gopherus agassizi) was named the official State Reptile in 1972. An endangered species which is now protected, the tortoise is a vegetarian that has been native to California to millions of years. At its quickest, it can move at about 20 feet per minute.

State Rock

Serpentine, a shiny, green and blue rock found throughout California, was named the official State Rock in 1965.

State Silver Rush Ghost Town

Calico, located near Barstow in San Bernardino County, was named the official California State Silver Rush Ghost Town in 2005. Today, Calico is part of a 480-acre County Regional Park.

State Soil

San Joaquin Soil was named the official State Soil in 1997.

State Song

"I Love You, California" was written by F.B. Silverwood, a Los Angeles merchant, and was first designated the state song in 1951.

State Tall Ship

The Californian, a replica of the 1847 Revenue Cutter C.W. Lawrence, which patrolled California's coast during the Gold Rush, was designated as the official State Tall Ship in 2003. It is owned by the Maritime Museum in San Diego.

State Tartan

The California Tartan was adopted as the official California State Tartan in 2001. The tartan is based on the Muir Clan tartan, in honor of the naturalist John Muir.

State Theater

The Pasadena Playhouse staged its first production in 1924, and was recognized by Legislature as the official California State Theater in 1937.

State Tree

The California Redwood in both its forms, Coastal (Sequoia sempervirens) and Giant (Sequoia gigantea), is among the most ancient and awesome of living things. Except for Oregon, forests of these giant trees exist nowhere outside California.

EXECUTIVE BRANCH

Governor of California

The Governor is the chief executive of the California state government. The Governor is responsible for planning, organizing, and directing most state departments and agencies within the executive branch and developing executive policy and programs. The Governor is responsible for mobilizing and directing state resources during emergencies. The Governor appoints most department heads and members of boards and commissions, presents proposed legislation, and approves or vetoes legislative enactments. The Governor has the power to exercise executive reprieves and commutations of sentences; he also approves or denies extradition in criminal cases involving interstate transfer of prisoners.

Governor: Edmund G Brown, Jr

Democrat

Edmund G Brown Jr, also known as Jerry Brown, was elected Governor of California in November 2010.

Mr Brown has had a long and high-profile political career, beginning with his election as California Secretary of State in 1970. Jerry Brown became Governor of California in 1974 and served two terms, introducing many progressive political reforms. He has run for the Democratic Presidential nomination three times. He served as Chair of the California State Democratic Party in 1989, and has had two successful terms as Mayor of Oakland, from 1998 to 2006. From 2006 to 2010, he served as Attorney General of California.

Jerry Brown received his BA in Classics from UC Berkeley in 1961 and his JD from Yale Law School in 1964. He has personally founded both the Oakland School for the Arts and the Oakland Military Institute.

Born in San Francisco in 1938, Jerry Brown was married for the first time to Anne Gust in 2005.

Lieutenant Governor of California

The Lieutenant Governor is Chairman of the Economic Development Commission and the State Lands Commission. He also serves on the Board of Regents of the University of California and on the Board of Trustees of the State College and University system. In case of impeachment, death, resignation, removal from office, absence from the State, or inability to discharge the duties of Governor, the Lieutenant Governor assumes the office of the Chief Executive for the remainder of the term, or until the disability shall cease.

Lieutenant Governor of California:

Gavin Newsom

Democrat

Gavin Newsom was elected Lieutenant Governor in November of 2010. Prior to taking office, he served as mayor of the City and County of San Francisco from 2004-2010, and was a member of San Francisco's Board of Supervisors from 1997-2004.

Raised in the San Francisco Bay Area, Gavin Newsom earned his BA in political science at Santa Clara University in 1989. As mayor of San Francisco, Mr Newsom introduced groundbreaking legislation, including same-sex marriage licenses, a universal health care program and the Project Homeless Connect initiative.

Mr Newsom is married to Jennifer Siebel Newsom and they have one child, born in 2009.

Secretary of State

The California Constitution and state statutes direct the Secretary of State to be the state's chief elections officer, to commission notaries public, to charter corporations, to oversee the State Archives, and to file a host of documents ranging from Uniform Commercial Code, financing statements, and tax lien information to certificates of limited partnerships and campaign and lobbyist disclosure information.

The Secretary of State also serves as an ex-officio member of the California State World Trade Commission and appoints one of the five members of the Fair Political Practices Commission. There are numerous other functions performed by the Secretary of State, including attesting to the Governor's signature on executive orders, proclamations, resolutions, extradition papers, and appointments; chartering all bills passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor or allowed to become law without the Governor's signature; maintaining the registry of vacant appointive positions within state government; filing the oaths of office of gubernatorial appointees; filing administrative regulations adopted by state departments, boards, and agencies; publishing the California Roster of state, local, and county government officials; filing judicial retirement notices, and many more.

Secretary of State: Debra Bowen

Republican

Debra Bowen was elected Secretary of State in 2006, becoming the sixth woman in California history elected to a statewide constitutional office.

During her first year in office, Secretary Bowen commissioned a comprehensive independent review of voting technology, and in 2008 she was recognized for her leadership with the John F Kennedy Profile in Courage Award.

After graduating from Michigan State University in 1976, Ms Bowen earned her law degree from the University of Virginia. She went on to practice corporate and tax law in Chicago, Washington DC and Los Angeles, eventually expanding her practice to include environmental and land use cases.

First elected to the Assembly in 1992, Ms Bowen represented the 53rd District in west Los Angeles County for three terms. She was then elected to the State Senate in 1998 and served two terms as the representative for the 28th Senate District.

Secretary Bowen was born in Rockford, Illinois and is married to Mark Nechodom, Deputy Director for Energy and Climate at the US Department of Agriculture.

Attorney General

The Attorney General is the chief law officer of the State and it is his duty to see that laws are uniformly and adequately enforced (California Constitution, Article V, Section 13). The Attorney General carries out the responsibilities of the office through the California Department of Justice.

The Attorney General represents the people of California in civil and criminal matters before trial, appellate, and the supreme courts of California and the United States. The Attorney General also serves as legal counsel to state officers, and, with few exceptions, to state agencies, boards, and commissions. Exceptions to the centralized legal work done on behalf of the State are listed in Section 11041 of the Government Code.

The Attorney General also assists district attorneys, local law enforcement, and federal and international criminal justice agencies in the administration of justice. To support California's law enforcement community, the Attorney General coordinates statewide narcotics efforts, participates in criminal investigations, and provides forensic science services, identification and information services, and telecommunications support.

In addition, the Attorney General establishes and operates projects and programs to protect Californians from fraudulent, unfair, and illegal activities that victimize consumers or threaten public safety, and enforces laws that safeguard the environment and natural resources.

Under the state Constitution, the Attorney General is elected to a four-year term in the same statewide election as the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Controller, Secretary of State, Treasurer, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Insurance Commissioner. In 1990, voters imposed a two-term limit on these statewide offices.

Attorney General: Kamala D Harris

Democrat

Kamala Harris was elected Attorney General in November of 2010. Prior to taking office, she served two terms as San Francisco's District Attorney from 2003-2010, the first woman in San Francisco's history to be elected to that office.

Ms. Harris began her career in the Office of the Alameda County District Attorney. She was Deputy District Attorney and a criminal prosecutor for Alameda County from 1990-98. She later moved on to work in the Office of the San Francisco District Attorney and City Attorney, until she was elected DA in 2003. She has been recognized for her public service by many organizations, including the San Francisco Child Abuse Prevention Council, the National Urban League, the National Black Prosecutor's Association, and the Aspen Institute.

Born to a South Asian immigrant mother and an African American father, Kamala Harris grew up in the East Bay. She completed her BA at Howard University and a Juris Doctorate at UC Hastings College of the Law,

Treasurer, State

The State Treasurer's Office is the State's lead asset manager, banker, and financier, and also serves as chairperson, or a member, of numerous State authorities, boards, and commissions. This office is responsible to California's taxpayers for the management of the State's $60 billion Pooled Money Investment Account portfolio (as of June 30, 2005).

The Treasurer's Office provides the trust services for state-owned securities in the state vault and for deposits amounting to over $35 billion.

The Treasurer serves on the boards of the Public Employees' Retirement System (CalPERS) and State Teachers' Retirement System (CalSTRS) with more than $300 billion in assets as of June 30, 2005. CalPERS and CalSTRS are significant investors/stockholders in the American and global economies. They are charged with providing for the retirement of their members and also perform a variety of services for them (eg CalPERS is the second largest purchaser of health care services in the country).

The Treasurer's Office finances a variety of important public works needed for the State's future, including schools and higher education facilities, transportation projects, parks, and environmental projects.

The Treasurer chairs authorities that finance a wide range of significant private projects including pollution clean-up, small businesses, and health care facilities. The Treasurer chairs the State commission that awards low-cost, tax-exempt financing for various purposes such as housing, economic development, and student loans. He also plays a key role in statewide housing finance as Chair of the Tax Credit Allocation Committee, which awards hundreds of dollars in tax credits for affordable housing, and as a member of the Board of California Housing Finance Agency, which finances affordable housing.

Controller, State

State Treasurer: Bill Lockyer

Democrat

Bill Lockyer was elected to the position of State Treasurer in 2006. Prior to taking office, he served as California's Attorney General.

Lockyer graduated from San Leandro High School before earning a BA in political science from the University of California at Berkeley. He then received his secondary teaching credential from California State University at Hayward and completed his Juris Doctorate Degree at McGeorge School of Law, University of the Pacific.

A former teacher, Lockyer served on the San Leandro School Board from 1968 to 1973, and also served as the Chair of the Alameda County Democratic Central Committee.

Lockyer was elected to the State Assembly in 1973 and to the State Senate in 1982. He served as President Pro Tempore of California State Senate from 1994 to 1998, and was in charge of maintaining majority in the House where he chaired the Senate Rules Committee.

Born in Oakland on May 8, 1941, Bill is married to Nadia. He has a daughter, Lisa, and a son, Diego.

Controller, State

The State Controller is the State's chief fiscal officer and is elected by a vote of the people every four years. Duties of the State Controller are prescribed by the State Constitution, with additional powers or functions added by legislative statute.

The primary function of the State Controller is to provide sound fiscal controls over both receipts and disbursements of public funds; to report periodically on the financial operations and condition of both state and local governments; to make certain that money due the state is collected through fair, equitable, and effective tax administration; to provide fiscal guidance to local governments; to serve as a member of a number of policy-making state boards and commissions; and to administer the unclaimed property and property tax postponement programs.

State Controller: John Chiang

Democrat

John Chiang was elected to the position of State Controller in 2006.

A graduate of Georgetown University Law Center, Chiang is also an honors graduate with a degree in Finance from the University of South Florida.

Chiang began his career as a tax law specialist with the Internal Revenue Service in Los Angeles and later served as an attorney with the Office of the State Controller. He was first elected to the Board of Equalization in 1998, and was unanimously voted in as chair in 2004.

Chiang was born in New York City and raised in Chicago before moving to Los Angeles in 1987. He is married to Terry Chi, and they reside in Torrance, CA.

Public Instruction, State Superintendent of

The Office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction is one of seven state-wide constitutional offices in California, and is the only one that is nonpartisan.

The Superintendent is accountable to the people of California for administering and enforcing educational law and regulations, and for the continued reform and improvement of public elementary and secondary school programs, adult education, and some preschool and child care programs.

The Superintendent is Executive Officer and Secretary of the State Board of Education and Director of the California Department of Education. The Department administers California’s public education system at the state level. The Superintendent administers the day-to-day operation of the Department, and is responsible for two schools for the deaf, one school for the blind, and three diagnostic centers for neurologically disabled pupils.

In addition to serving as a University of California Regent, the Superintendent serves as an ex-officio member of the California State University and the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing board of trustees. The Superintendent also serves as an ex-officio member or has representation on more than 100 boards, commissions, and committees established by the Department, the Legislature, or the Executive Branch.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction: Tom Torlakson

Nonpartisan

Tom Torlakson was elected State Superintendent of Public Instruction in November of 2010. Previously, he served in the California State Assembly from 1996-2000 and 2008-2010, and in the State Senate from 2000-2008.

Mr Torlakson’s political career began in 1978 when he was elected to the Antioch City Council. He later served on the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors from 1981-96. From 1972-98, he also worked as a science teacher and fitness coach in Bay Area high schools.

Born in San Francisco in 1949, Tom Torlakson joined the Merchant Marine in 1967 at the age of 18. After returning to civilian life in 1970, he earned a BA in history at UC-Berkeley. He later returned to his alma mater after several years of working as a teacher, earning an MA in education and a Life Secondary Teaching Credential in 1977.

Currently a resident of Antioch, Mr Torlakson has always been an active member of his community and an avid athlete. He is the founder and chair of the California Task Force on Youth and Workplace Wellness, and received the Political Courage Award from the California Nurses Association in 1999. He also placed first in the 50-59 age group in the Bethel Island International Triathlon and received a National Trails Award for Public Service from American Trails in 2008.

Equalization, Board of

The Board of Equalization is overseen by a five-member elected Board. Four members are elected directly from legislatively defined districts within the state and serve four-year terms. The fifth member, the State Controller, is elected at-large and serves in an ex-officio capacity.

The Board acts in a judicial capacity as the appellate body for appeals from various business tax assessments, Franchise Tax Board actions, utility assessments, and county property tax assessments. In its administrative capacity, the Board issues guidelines on state taxes in the form of rules and regulations. Further, it sets the property values of utilities for tax purposes, sets the tax rate under various tax laws, and guides and evaluates the assessment practices of the state's 58 county assessors.

Environmental Protection Agency, California (CAL/EPA)

The California Environmental Protection Agency is responsible for coordinating and prioritizing the State’s efforts to protect the environment. The Agency emphasizes environmental regulation that is clear, understandable and uniform.

Created in 1991 by Governor Pete Wilson, CAL/EPA unified the state’s environmental authority under a single, accountable, cabinet-level agency. This reorganization brought together the Departments of Pesticide Regulation and Toxic Substances Control, and the Office of Environmental Health Hazard Assessment and the Air Resources Board, Integrated Waste Management Board, State Water Resources Control Board and nine Regional Water Quality Control Boards.

The Secretary for Environmental Protection is the administrative head of the Agency and serves as the primary point of accountability, reporting directly to the Governor, for coordination of the State’s many environmental protection programs.

The mission of the CAL/EPA is to restore, protect and enhance the environment, and to ensure public health, environmental quality and economic vitality. . . . .

Secretary for Environmental Protection:
Matt Rodriguez

Matt Rodriguez was appointed California Secretary for Environmental Protection by Governor Edmund G Brown, Jr in July 2011.

Prior to his appointment Rodriguez was a graduate student assistant with the California Coastal Commission from 1979 to 1981, associate program analyst for the Governor’s Office of Planning and Research from 1981 to 1983, Assistant City Attorney for the City of Livermore from 1983 to 1985, Deputy City Attorney for the City of Hayward from 1985 to 1987, Deputy General Attorney with the California Department of Justice from 1987 to 1999, Senior Assistant Attorney General for the Land Law Section from 1999 to 2008, and Chief Assistant Attorney General for the Public Rights Division from 2008 to 2011.

As well, Rodriguez has taught classes environmental law and resources management at the University of California at Berkeley. He earned a degree in history from UC Berkeley and a JD from Hasting College of the Law.

Administrative Law, Office of

The Office of Administrative Law (OAL) is an independent state agency which reviews and approves or disapproves administrative regulations proposed by over 200 state agencies to protect the public's rights under the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) and to ensure that regulatory actions are consistent with governing statutes. The OAL exists to eliminate unnecessary, unclear, and burdensome regulations, improve the quality of regulations and ensure public participation in the rulemaking process. The OAL reviews each regulation against the statutory standards of necessity, authority, clarity, consistency, non-duplication and reference; and ensures the validity of proposed emergency regulations. Other responsibilities include editing and publication of the California Register, Regulatory Notice, and the California Code of Regulations; reformatting and developing a general index to the Code.

Aging, California Commission on

The Commission on Aging is the principal advocate body for older persons of the state. Its objectives are to ensure that the interests of older persons in California are represented by advising the governor, the Legislature, the Department of Aging, and agencies at all levels of government. The commission holds six meetings per year and special hearings throughout the state to identify the needs and solicit the recommendations of older persons. The commission works closely with the state's 33 Area Agency on Aging Advisory Councils, and provides information to individuals and senior organizations regarding matters of public policy affecting older persons. The commission coordinates and provides staff and administrative support to the Triple-A Council of California (TACC).

Aging, Department of

(Under Health and Human Services Agency)

The Department of Aging serves as the principal unifying force for services to California's more than four million seniors. The Department is responsible for the coordination of all State activities related to the purposes of the Older Americans Act and the Older Californians Act. Its mission is to provide leadership in addressing issues related to aging Californians, and in developing community-based systems of services throughout the State. Through its efforts, the Department seeks to support the health, dignity, and independence of aging individuals. The California Department of Aging and its Area Agencies on Aging share the major responsibility for addressing present and future aging and long-term care issues within California. Each supports the other in a broad range of activities directed to overcoming and eliminating barriers to the development of community-based systems of services. Their unique partnership is fundamental to recognizing and celebrating the essential resource represented by older Californians.

Agricultural Labor Relations Board

The Agricultural Labor Relations Board was created by the Agricultural Labor Relations Act of 1975 (Chapter 1) to ensure peace in the agricultural fields of California by bringing stability in labor relations through the guarantee of secret-ballot elections to determine collective bargaining representation and the identification and elimination of unfair labor practices by employers and unions. The Agricultural Labor Relations Board is patterned after the National Labor Relations Board and has two major divisions: the board and the general counsel.

Air Resources Board

(Under the California Environmental Protection Agency)

The California Air Resources Board (ARB) is the state agency responsible for controlling vehicular sources of air pollution and assisting local air pollution control districts for non vehicular (stationary source) controls, to ensure that ambient air quality standards are achieved and maintained. The ARB's regulation of vehicular sources includes emission standards for new and in-use motor vehicles, test procedures, certification of control devices and systems, specification of the content of motor vehicle fuel, and enforcement. The ARB also sets air-quality standards, administers the California Clean Air Act, measures air pollution levels, identifies sub-regions of the state which do not meet standards, conducts research, identifies toxic air contaminants and determines methods to control them, and coordinates the local district programs. The ARB oversees and assists local districts in controlling stationary source emissions by reviewing district regulations and programs; providing technical assistance; setting and enforcing regulations if a district fails to do so; and approving local air-quality management plans.

Arts Council, California

The California Arts Council was created to encourage artistic awareness, participation, and expression; to assist independent local groups to develop arts programs; to promote the employment of artists in both the public and private sectors; to provide for the exhibition of artwork in public buildings throughout California; and to enlist the assistance of all state agencies in the task of ensuring the fullest expression of our artistic potential. In carrying out this mandate, the California Arts Council has focused its efforts on advocating for adequate sustained on-going public and private revenue streams to fund the arts, facilitate technical assistance and professional development, and promote the arts in California in general - as well as the development of grants programs designed to provide funding to individuals and organizations representing all artistic disciplines for general, project, and touring support. Grants awarded by the Arts Council are matched by foundations, businesses, local governments, and other arts agencies and organizations.

Coastal Commission, California

(Under the Natural Resources Agency)

A permanent State Coastal Commission and a set of coastal conservation and developmental policies were established by the passage of the California Coastal Act of 1976. The act empowers the State Commission to regulate development in the coastal zone and coastal waters, and to work with local governments along the coast to bring their plans into conformity with the policies of the Coastal Act. After certification of local coastal plans, the local governments assume general control over day-to-day development decisions in most of the coastal zone with a limited appeals system for the state coastal agency.

Coastal Conservancy, California

The State Coastal Conservancy acts with others to preserve, protect, and restore the resources of the California coast, the San Francisco Bay Area, and the marine environment. To accomplish this, the Conservancy employs entrepreneurial techniques carried out through several programs: preservation of farmland, solving land use and development problems, protection of coastal watersheds and marine resources, restoration and enhancement of natural resources, development of urban waterfronts, acquisition of significant resource areas, and development of public access to and along the shoreline and around San Francisco Bay. The Conservancy's project-oriented approach to solving problems is conducted in partnership with local governments, other public agencies, nonprofit organizations, and private landowners. Its creative, non-regulatory methods complement the work of the Coastal Commission and the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Conservation Corps, California

(Under the Natural Resources Agency)

The California Conservation Corps (CCC) is a work ethic program that has a dual mission: the employment and development of young people, and the conservation and enhancement of the state's natural resources. To carry out this mission, the CCC has established residential centers throughout the state, as well as nonresidential satellite locations. The CCC is the largest and oldest youth corps program in operation today. Modeled after the Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s, it was created in July 1976 and was made a permanent state department in 1983. In both urban and rural areas of the state, the CCC undertakes projects that benefit Californians and develop skills for corps members, such as tree planting, trail building, stream clearing, building playgrounds, restoring historic buildings, or revitalizing downtown centers. Corps members are also called upon to control floods, battle forest fires, and provide disaster relief following major earthquakes. In addition to physical work, the CCC provides programs to enhance corps members' employability and educational opportunities.

Developmental Services, Department of

(Under Health and Human Services Agency)

The Department of Developmental Services administers the Lanterman Developmental Disabilities Services Act. The intent of the act is to assure coordination of services to persons with special developmental needs; to assure that such services are planned and provided as part of a continuum which is sufficiently complete to meet the needs of those who are developmentally disabled at each stage of their lives, regardless of age or degree of handicap; and to the extent possible, in the least restrictive setting in the home community. The department's established goals and objectives are: (1) to reduce the incidence or severity of developmental disabilities through increased prevention efforts; (2) to promote the delivery of appropriate services to persons with developmental disabilities in the most efficient and effective manner; (3) to increase public awareness, understanding and support for persons with developmental disabilities; (4) to meet or exceed appropriate program standards through an equitable delivery system; (5) to promote cooperation among public and private entities to enhance services to persons with developmental disabilities; (6) to promote policies that encourage persons with developmental disabilities to lead more independent, productive and normal lives; and (7) to identify and secure alternative funding to maintain and develop services to eligible clients. Services under the direction of the department include prevention of developmental disabilities through community education and consultation; early intervention and crisis response; 24-hour community or developmental center placement; day care restorative and rehabilitation services; and continuing program coordination. Emphasis is placed on program outreach services to those persons who, because of geographical isolation, ethnic background, financial restrictions, or other similar causes, have not had ready access to traditional developmental services. The department sets broad policy for the delivery of developmental services statewide; establishes priorities, standards and procedures within which the developmental services program operates; monitors reviews and evaluates the actual operation of the services; and oversees the correction of faulty procedures and practices brought to light by the evaluation and review process. Services are delivered directly through five developmental centers, two community facilities, and through a statewide network of 21 private, non-profit regional centers.

Energy Commission, California

(Under the Natural Resources Agency)

It is the California Energy Commission's mission to assess, advocate, and act through public/private partnerships to improve energy systems that promote a strong economy and a healthy environment.

The California Energy Commission is the state's primary energy policy and planning agency. Created by the Legislature in 1974 and located in Sacramento, the Commission has five major responsibilities: (1) forecasting future energy needs and keeping historical energy data; (2) licensing thermal power plants 50 megawatts or larger; (3) promoting energy efficiency through appliance and building standards; (4) developing energy technologies and supporting renewable energy; and (5) planning for and directing state response to energy emergencies.

With the signing of the Electric Industry Deregulation Law (Assembly Bill 1890), the Commission's role includes overseeing funding programs that support public interest energy research; advance energy science and technology through research, development, and demonstration; and provide market support to existing, new, and emerging renewable technologies.

Environmental Health Hazard Assessment, Office of (OEHHA)

(Under Environmental Protection Agency)

The mission of the Office of Environmental Health Hazard Assessment (OEHHA) is to protect and enhance public health and the environment by objective scientific evaluation of risks posed by hazardous substances. The office provides information to environmental regulators and the public about the health effects that result from environmental exposures to noninfectious agents. The office will identify, quantify, and recommend health-based standards for chemicals in the environment, and provide technical and scientific support, consultation, and training to state regulators, local government agencies, and the public. It will also develop scientific policies and guidelines for risk assessment procedures.

Fire Marshal, Office of the State

(See Department of Forestry and Fire Protection)

The office of the California State Fire Marshal is under the direction of the State Fire Marshal who is appointed by and serves at the pleasure of the governor. The office regulates buildings in which people live, congregate, or are confined; controls substances and products which may, in themselves, or by their misuse, cause injuries, death, and destruction by fire; trains and educates in fire protection methods and responsibilities. Reduced to its simplest terms, the function of the State Fire Marshal is fire prevention. That function is accomplished through several major program elements including code development, code enforcement, fire engineering, training, arson and bomb investigation, pipeline safety and fire incident reporting.

the continual interception of the highly mobile criminal element by its officers. As a principal criminal justice agency, the California Highway Patrol ensures the safe, convenient, and efficient transportation of people and goods over the California highway system. This protection of life and property is accomplished by accident control, congestion relief, law enforcement, and transportation services. These services include direct assistance to motorists; investigation and analysis of vehicle accidents and accident causes and trends; emergency care to sick and injured persons; regulation of the loading and transportation of specific materials, including hazardous commodities; inspection and regulation of commercial vehicles; and conduct of regional helicopter programs in cooperation with local law-enforcement agencies. The department also maintains highway safety information programs for the public and furnishes other related services. In addition, the Patrol operates a statewide program aimed at reducing vehicle thefts and deters the transportation of stolen property. The California Highway Patrol Academy provides extensive professional law-enforcement training for the department's officers and the officers of many other police agencies.

Housing and Community Development, Department of

(Under Business, Transportation and Housing Agency)

As the state's lead housing agency, the Department of Housing and Community Development is responsible for registering and titling of mobile homes, inspecting mobile homes and mobile home parks for health and safety codes, testing and licensing mobile home sellers and dealers, inspects employee housing for health and safety codes. In addition, the department administers a variety of programs with an emphasis on housing for special needs groups, specifically, housing for the elderly, the homeless, farm workers, and very low-income households. The programs are designed to preserve the existing housing stock, construct new housing units, create and preserve employment opportunities, and assist communities in meeting their community development needs. The department conducts its operations through four divisions: Division of Codes and Standards, Division of Community Affairs, Division of Housing Policy Development, and the Administration Division.

Housing Finance Agency, California

The California Housing Finance Agency is a public instrumentality with the power to issue tax-exempt bonds for the primary purpose of making or insuring below-market interest rate loans to meet the housing needs of persons and families of low and moderate income. Loans for home ownership housing are made indirectly through private lending institutions. Loans for rental housing are made directly to qualified borrowers or indirectly through private lending institutions. The Agency was created by the State Legislature in 1975 in response to a serious shortage of decent, safe, and sanitary housing which persons and families of low or moderate income, including the elderly and handicapped, could afford. The Legislature affirmed the national goal, established by the Congress of the United States, of providing a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family. The Legislature directs and encourages the private and public sectors of the state economy to cooperate and participate in the early attainment of a decent home and a satisfying environment for every Californian.

Integrated Waste Management Board, California

(Under the Environmental Protection Agency)

The mission of the California Integrated Waste Management Board is to help local government meet an aggressive waste reduction goal of 50 percent waste diversion; promote sustainable markets for all recyclable goods, safely manage the disposal of non recyclable materials; and protect the public and environment against the dangers of illegal and abandoned dumps and waste tire piles. The Board provides technical assistance in the preparation of city and county waste reduction and recycling plans; reviews and approves countywide integrated waste management plans; and conducts a broad range of enforcement, research and development, and public awareness activities.

The board also promotes the development of sustainable markets for all recyclable materials - including paper, plastics, rubber, and others - with technical and financial incentives, public education and outreach efforts, and by supporting research and demonstration pilot projects that provide interested groups with informative results on the value of recycling. Finally, the board protects the public and environment by cleaning up, or funding cleanup operations of, illegal and/or abandoned dumps and waste tire piles, and by regulating active landfills and waste tire facilities.

Mandates, Commission on State

Created by Statutes of 1984, Chapter 1459, the Commission on State Mandates is a quasi-judicial body responsible for carrying out two distinct statutory responsibilities under its Administration Program. First, since assuming its role from the Board of Control in 1985, the Commission adjudicates the claims of local entities alleging the existence of state-mandated reimbursable programs. Second, under legislation chartered in 1993, the Commission also makes determinations regarding the existence of significant financial distress for applicant counties which seek to reduce their General Assistance standards of aid.

Mental Health, Department of

(Under Health and Human Services Agency)

The Department of Mental Health administers a program of services for the prevention of mental illnesses in California. Services are delivered directly through state hospitals and indirectly through county-administered local mental health programs, and include crisis intervention, emergency care, 24-hour treatment and care, day treatment, outpatient care, continuing support, case management, community education and consultation, and prevention. Any California resident in need of care will have access to services regardless of geographic location or ability to pay. The Department of Mental Health administers the Short-Doyle Act, which was initiated in the 1950's as a state-local partnership designed to provide a continuum of services within the community and close to a patient's home. Under the Short-Doyle program, the State reimburses the county (or city) for up to 90 percent of the net cost of care provided locally according to Department guidelines and specifications of the Welfare and Institutions Code. The Department's role is to set broad policy for the delivery of mental health services statewide; to establish priorities, standards, and procedures within which mental health programs operate; to monitor, review, and evaluate the operation of services; to ensure the protection of patients' rights; and to carry out the provisions of statutes and regulations regarding public mental health and to implement the Mental Health Services Act (MHSA). The Department operates five state hospitals.

Mining and Geology Board, State

The State Mining and Geology Board is composed of nine members appointed by the Governor for four-year terms. By statute, the Board is comprised of individuals with specified professional backgrounds in geology, mining engineering, environmental protection, groundwater hydrology and water quality, urban planning, landscape architecture, mineral resource conservation and seismology, and one public member. The Board has broad policy responsibilities under the Surface Mining and Reclamation Act of 1975, for establishing and maintaining state policy for surface mining and reclamation and for the conservation and development of mineral resources. The Board represents the state's interest in the development of information necessary to the understanding and utilization of the state's terrain and seismological and geological information pertaining to earthquake and other geological hazards. General policy for the state's geologic survey, the Department of Conservation's Division of Mines and Geology, is established by the Board. These responsibilities recognize the impacts that California's complex geology, large amounts of federally managed lands, high mineralization, and potential for geologic hazards have on the state's economy, land use, and public safety.

Postsecondary Education Commission, California

The California Postsecondary Education Commission is the statewide agency for the coordination and planning of postsecondary education and serves as an advisor to the Legislature and the Governor on matters of educational policy. The Commission was created to assure the effective utilization of California's public educational resources and to promote diversity, innovation, and responsiveness to student and societal needs. The Commission's educational policy recommendations to the Legislature are to be a primary consideration in developing state policy and funding for public postsecondary education. Among the specific responsibilities assigned to the Commission are the development and annual updating of a state plan for postsecondary education, review of new academic programs proposed by the public segments of higher education, recommendations on the establishment of new institutions or branches of the State University and Colleges and the University of California, and the conducting of studies on projected manpower supply and demand. The Commission is the successor to the Coordinating Council for Higher Education and was established by Assembly Bill 770, which amended the Donahoe Higher Education Act of 1960. The Commission is composed of sixteen members, nine of whom represent the general public and are appointed by the Legislature and the Governor. Five Commissioners represent the various systems of postsecondary education in California and are appointed by their respective governing boards or executive bodies. The governor also appoints two student representatives.

Seismic Safety Commission

The Seismic Safety Commission was established by legislation in 1974. The law states the purpose of the commission is to work "toward higher levels of seismic safety." It does this by coordinating existing programs and initiating new legislative or administrative measures to deal with the continuing earthquake problem. The commission annually updates the state's five-year earthquake hazards reduction program. It consists of seventeen members, two of whom are appointed by the Legislature (one by the Senate Rules Committee and one by the speaker of the Assembly). The commission members, who are subject to Senate confirmation, receive per-diem and travel expenses as determined by the State Board of Control.

(Under Health and Human Services Agency)

The Department of Social Services manages California’s integrated social service, income maintenance, and workfare programs. The emphasis in all aid, service, and workfare programs is efficiency, effectiveness, and equity in the delivery of services and benefits. The department administers five major program areas (workfare program operations, social services, community care licensing, workfare, and disability evaluation) and provides administrative support for them. The goals of the department are to: ensure the delivery of payments and benefits with human dignity and equity to welfare recipients with effectiveness in terms of the lowest possible administrative costs; provide social services to California’s elderly, blind, disabled, and other adults and children to protect them from abuse, neglect, and exploitation and to help families stay together; administer the counties’ efficient implementation and operation of the statewide workfare program, encouraging enthusiastic participation of welfare recipients in the comprehensive program designed to employ California’s needy through education, vocational and on-the-job training, and job-search techniques, while providing necessary support services; regulate group homes, nurseries, and pre-schools, foster family homes, placement agencies, day care centers, family day care homes, adult residential facilities, and residential facilities for the elderly to assure the public that all such California facilities meet established standards for health and safety; evaluate the disability of applicants for various Social Security Act programs and state disability programs in an efficient, effective, and equitable manner to ensure that eligibility exists.

State Lands Commission

The State Lands Commission administers State land leases, permits, and sales; boundary surveys; state oil, gas, and mineral property leases; title disputes; and maintains basic State land title records. It administers, sells, and leases public lands owned by the State or under its control, including vacant school lands, as well as tidelands, submerged lands, swamp and overflowed lands, and beds of navigable rivers and lakes. The Commission manages all statutory lands which the State has received from the federal government since statehood. Statutory lands include the beds of all naturally navigable rivers, lakes and streams; tide and submerged lands; swamp and overflow lands; and the remaining state-owned school lands (sections 16 and 36). It locates the precise boundaries of tide, submerged, and other land areas to assure protection of the State's interest. It leases lands for efficient development of mineral resources, for commercial, industrial, and recreational purposes.

Tahoe Conservancy, California

The Tahoe Conservancy is a land acquisition, restoration, and management agency charged with addressing: (1) preservation of water quality; (2) protection of the region's scenic beauty; (3) provision of public access and recreational opportunities; (4) preservation of wildlife habitat; and (5) resource protection, enhancement, and management in the basin. By virtue of its mandate and authorities, it is hoped that the Conservancy can play a role in reconciling resource protection needs with equitable treatment of landowners in the Lake Tahoe Basin; supporting interagency and public/private sector collaborative efforts; and, because it is headquartered in South Lake Tahoe, it can be sensitive and responsive to issues affecting Lake Tahoe. The Conservancy is governed by a seven-member board which includes representatives from the City of South Lake Tahoe, El Dorado County, and Placer County; two public members appointed by the Legislature; the State Director of Finance; the Secretary for Resources. A representative of the U.S. Forest Service serves as an ex-officio non-voting member.

Tahoe Regional Planning Agency

The Tahoe Regional Planning Agency (TRPA) was established by interstate compact. The original compact was approved by the California Legislature (Statutes of 1967), by the Nevada Legislature, and by the U.S. Congress. An amended compact became law in both California and Nevada in September 1980, and was ratified by Congress and signed by the President on December 1980 (PL 96-551). As with the original compact, the purpose of this amended compact was to provide coordinated plans and enforceable regulations to preserve and enhance the environment and resources of the entire Lake Tahoe Basin while providing for orderly growth. Additional mandates of the same compact required adoption of environmental threshold carrying capacities for the Tahoe Basin and a subsequent regional plan based on said environmental standards. Upon adoption of this amended regional plan and ordinances, the California Tahoe Regional Planning Agency (CTRPA) (established by Chapter Statutes of 1967) was phased out. An interstate compact takes precedence to state enactments because it represents an agreement between sovereign states and Congress. The TRPA is a 15-member body (seven from each state and one presidential non-voting member) including two appointees of the California Governor, one appointee of the Assembly Speaker, and one appointee from the Senate Rules Committee.

Transportation Commission, California

The Transportation Commission is primarily responsible for the following activities: adopting the State Transportation Improvement Plan, which includes an estimate of state funds over a four-year period for transportation projects, and allocating these funds to projects prioritized in keeping with statewide and regional interests; allocating state funds for capital improvements to specific highway, toll bridge, public mass transportation, and aeronautics projects upon readiness for construction. Project funding is made within the constraint of available financial resources. Additional projects are based on identified local, regional and state transportation needs. It recommends funding priorities to the Legislature among the various elements of the state's mass-transportation program, including state transit assistance, and rail passenger service, provides policy guidance for the administration and legislature in identifying key issues on finances, operations and future needs in transportation through the Annual Report to the Legislature. It submits to the Legislature an evaluation of the proposed budget of the California Department of Transportation, its adequacy in contributing to a balanced transportation program, and the adequacy of current state transportation revenue, including gasoline tax rates, driver licensing, vehicle registration, and weight fees.

Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board

(Formerly known as the Board of Control.)

The California Victim Compensation Program (CalVCP) helps victims and their families' deal with the emotional, physical and financial aftermath of violent crime through compensation and service in collaboration with the community that supports victims. Assistance is provided for residents regardless of where the crime occurred and for non-residents who become victims of crime in California.

The Government Claims Program protects the State of California, its residents and visitors, by processing and resolving claims against the State from individuals and organizations in a timely and equitable manner. Claimants receive a thorough investigation of their claims against the State through fact-finding hearings, frequently without the need for costly litigation.

LEGISLATIVE BRANCH OF CALIFORNIA

The California Legislature is composed of an Assembly and a Senate, consisting of 80 and 40 members respectively. Members of the Assembly are elected for two-year terms, while Senators are elected for four-year terms, with one-half of the membership elected every two years. Prior to their election, the members of the Legislature must be over 18 years of age, United States citizens, inhabitants of California for three years, and residents of the district that they represent for one year. Elections for the Assembly and Senate are held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November of even-numbered years.

The presiding officer of the Assembly is the Speaker, elected for a two-year term by a majority vote of the members. The Speaker appoints all of the chairs and the members of the Assembly committees, with the exception of the members of the Rules Committee, and establishes the schedule of meetings for all Assembly standing committees. The Speaker is charged with the overall management and supervision of the Assembly. In addition to being the elected leader of the Assembly, he also acts as the spokesperson for his majority party. The Assembly also elects a Speaker pro tempore, who exercises the powers and the duties of the Speaker during his absence, including presiding over the regular meetings of the full Assembly. To assist in the performance of his duties, the Speaker appoints a personal representative on the floor, known as the Majority Floor Leader. He assists the Speaker in the conduct of Assembly business by making the appropriate motions and points of order that are necessary to expedite the proceedings of the House. A Minority Floor Leader is designated by a caucus of Minority members, and acts as their representative on the floor of the Assembly. In addition to the above officers, the Assembly also elects three officers who are not members of the Assembly: a Chief Clerk, a Sergeant at Arms, and a Chaplain.

The Senate is organized in a similar manner to the Assembly with the exception that, as provided by the constitution, the Lieutenant Governor, rather than a member of the Senate, serves as President of the Senate and presides over the sessions of that body. The Senate does, however, elect a President pro tempore from its own membership who acts as the presiding officer of the Senate in the absence of the Lieutenant Governor. The Senate also elects a Secretary and a Sergeant at Arms, who are not Members of the Senate.

The Rules Committee

The business affairs of each House are conducted by a Rules Committee. The Speaker appoints the Chairperson of the Assembly Rules Committee. The remainder of the committee consists of eight members (four from each party) who are nominated by their respective caucuses and elected by a majority vote of the entire Assembly. An important function of the committee is the initial assignment of all bills to standing committees. The Rules Committee also provides clerical assistance and offices for members and approves the expenditures of other committees.

The President pro tempore serves as Chair of the Senate Rules Committee, while the other four members are elected by the Senate. The functions of the Senate Rules Committee differ somewhat from those of the Assembly; for example, the Committee appoints the committee chairs.

Committee System

With the volume of legislation that is introduced and considered, it is impossible for each member of the legislature to review in detail all of the changes in and additions to existing law that are proposed. Any such proposal is embodied in what is called a bill. It is expected that the legislature will consider approximately 6,500 bills during the current two-year session. In order to cope with the multitude of bills and the variety of subject matter introduced, a system of policy committees has been established. The committees, each varying greatly in size and scope, may best be described as the basic working units of the legislature.

In placing members on committees, considerable importance is attached to their previous experience and training. It is not unusual, therefore, that a majority of the membership of the Committees on Judiciary and Public Safety are attorneys, or that many of the members of the Committee on Education are teachers. This makes it possible for the legislature to consider in depth the numerous bills which are presented. The number and subject of the committees change from time to time to reflect the current areas of concern to the state.

Following a bill's introduction in the House, it is referred to a committee where it may be scheduled for hearing. The hearing is the point at which the general public and interested parties are invited to testify in favor of or in opposition to a bill and many important policy questions are resolved. Then the committee makes its decision on the proposed legislation and reports its recommendation to the House.

Sessions of the Legislature

As a result of a constitutional amendment adopted by the people in 1972, the California Legislature now meets in a continuous two-year session, convening on the first Monday in December of an even-numbered year (e.g. 2006). The biennial session permits more extended and thorough studies of the complex problems facing the state. It also eliminates the necessity of reintroducing and reprinting in the second year those bills which were not acted upon or were refused passage during the first year of the biennial session. In addition, the Governor may call the legislature into session to consider and act upon certain subjects. On these occasions the legislature is limited to the consideration of the matters specified in the Governor's Proclamation.

Bills enacted by October 2 of a given year (e.g. 2012) become effective on January 1 of the following year (e.g. 2013). Bills which are necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health, or safety are called Urgency Measures, and take effect immediately upon being signed by the Governor. Bills enacted at extraordinary sessions become effective 91 days after the adjournment of that session.

At the opening of each day's session, bills are introduced, read for the first time and referred to the various committees. When the committees report the bills back to the House, they are placed on the Daily File, which is the agenda for the legislative day, and read a second time. The constitution requires that the bills be read for the third time on a subsequent day. It is at this third reading that debate on the measure takes place. If the bill is passed, it is sent to the other House, where it follows a similar procedure. If the second House also approves, it is then sent to the Governor for his signature or veto.

A majority vote (41) of the elected Assembly members will pass all but urgency and appropriation bills or proposed constitutional amendments, all of which require a two-thirds vote (54). In the Senate, voting requires 21 votes to pass a regular bill and 27 to pass the others.

JUDICIAL BRANCH

JUDICIAL BRANCH OF CALIFORNIA

Municipal Courts

Municipal courts hear misdemeanor and infraction cases and civil cases involving monetary claims up to $25,000. Both have small claims courts where judges hear disputes involving $2,500 or less; these are informal courts where people argue their own cases without lawyers. Each county is divided into judicial districts. A municipal court is established when the judicial district's population exceeds 40,000. Many more people do business with the municipal courts than they do with all other courts. In fact, municipal courts handled more than 18 million cases in a recent year.

Superior Courts

Superior courts hear all felony cases and civil monetary disputes involving more than $25,000. They also handle special matters such as juvenile court proceedings, domestic relations, administration of wills and estates, and hear appeals from municipal courts. Each of California's 58 counties has one Superior Court. More than 900,000 cases were filed in those courts in a recent year. In most counties, Superior Courts are organized into departments for greater efficiency; each specializes in one or more fields of the law, such as family law, juvenile court, probate, law and motion, criminal and general trial.

Appellate Courts

These courts do not decide questions of fact, such as whether a defendant is guilty or who was at fault in a civil dispute. Those are decisions that the trial courts make. Appellate courts decide questions of law, such as whether the trial court judge applied the laws correctly in the case. If they find that the law was wrongly applied, they may order a new trial. There are two kinds of appellate courts in California. Courts of Appeal, in six districts, review superior court decisions (except death penalty cases). The Supreme Court is California's court of last resort.

Supreme Court

The Supreme Court of California is the state's highest court. Its decisions are binding on all other California state courts. The court conducts regular sessions in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Sacramento; it may also hold special sessions elsewhere. One Chief Justice and six associate justices are appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Commission on Judicial Appointments. The appointments are confirmed by the public at the next general election; justices also come before voters at the end of their 12-year terms. The Supreme Court has original jurisdiction in proceedings for extraordinary relief in the nature of mandamus, certiorari, and prohibition. The court also has original jurisdiction in habeas corpus proceedings. The state Constitution gives the Supreme Court the authority to review decisions of the state Courts of Appeal.

This reviewing power enables the Supreme Court to decide important legal questions and to maintain uniformity in the law. The court selects specific issues for review, or it may decide all the issues in a case. The Constitution also directs the high court to review all cases in which a judgment of death has been pronounced by the trial court. Under State law, these cases are automatically appealed directly from the trial court to the Supreme Court. In addition, the Supreme Court reviews the recommendations of the Commission on Judicial Performance and the State Bar of California concerning the discipline of judges and attorneys for misconduct. The only matters coming directly to the Supreme Court are appeals from decisions of the Public Utilities Commission.

Note: There is a separate federal court system, with four districts in California. The federal court system has jurisdiction in all cases arising under the U.S. Constitution or federal law, in disputes between individuals and legal entities (corporations, partnerships, etc.) who are citizens of different states, and in a variety of specialized matters including admiralty, maritime, bankruptcy, patent and copyright, postal, and the Internal Revenue Service.

Criminal Court Cases

Criminal cases are brought against individuals or corporations by the district attorney, acting on behalf of the people of California. In a criminal case, a person is accused of violating a written law. There are three kinds of criminal violations: infractions are minor violations, such as most traffic offenses, punishable only by a fine. Misdemeanors are cases, such as disturbing the peace or trespassing, in which the offender may be fined or sent to jail for a year or less. Felony cases carry more severe penalties and involve such crimes as robbery, thefts of large amounts of money or property, kidnapping, and murder. A felon can be sentenced to state prison.

Civil Court Cases

Although criminal cases attract more public attention, the courts handle many civil matters as well. Civil cases are brought by a plaintiff: an individual, business or agency of government asking the court to protect some right or to help recover money or property from the defendant, another individual, business or agency of government. Civil cases involve matters such as disputes over business transactions, property rights, dissolution of marriages, administration of wills, and claims of accident victims.

Juvenile Court Cases

Juvenile Court is the division of the Superior Court handling cases involving law offenders under 18, and cases involving child protection where parents have been accused of abuse, neglect, or abandonment. Juvenile hearings are closed to the public and do not use juries. Children accused of violating the law come before the court in delinquency cases, in which they are accused of committing acts which would be crimes if they were adults, and status offense cases, which involve violations specific to children, such as cutting school or running away from home. Abuse, neglect or abandonment cases, in which the court may take custody of a child for his or her protection, are called dependency cases. The Juvenile Court works with police, probation, social services, schools and private agencies to provide treatment and care for both delinquent and dependent children.

SUPREME COURT JUSTICES

Chief Justice: Cantil-Sakauye, Tani Gorre

Chief Justice Tani Cantil-Sakauye was sworn into office as Chief Justice of California on January 3, 2011. Prior to her appointment, she had served for more than 20 years in state trial and appellate courts. In 1990, she was appointed to the Sacramento Municipal Court, and in 1977 she was assigned to the Superior Court of Sacramento County where she presided over both criminal and civil trials. In 2005, she was nominated by Governor Schwarzenegger to the Court of Appeal, Third Appellate District.

Born in Sacramento in 1959, Chief Justice Cantil Sakauye graduated from UC-Davis in 1980 with honors. She joined UC-Davis Martin Luther King, Jr. School of Law in 1981, and received her JD in 1984. Chief Justice Cantil Sakauye worked as a deputy district attorney for Sacramento County before serving on the senior staff of Governor Deukmejian. She is married to Mark and has two daughters.

Associate Justice: Baxter, Marvin Ray

Justice Baxter was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1990. Prior to this he was: Deputy District Attorney, Fresno County, 1967-69; practiced law in Fresno County, 1969-83; and was Appointments Secretary to Governor George Deukmejian.

Justice Baxter is a graduate of Fowler Union High School, 1957; Fresno State College, BA, 1962; and University of California, Hastings School of Law, JD, 1966. He is married to Jane Pippert and they have two children.

Associate Justice: Corrigan, Carol A

Justice Corrigan was appointed to the California Supreme Court in December of 2005. Prior to this she served as Deputy District Attorney, Alameda County, 1975-85; Senior Deputy District Attorney, Alameda County, 1985-87; Judge, Oakland, Emeryville Piedmont Judicial District, 1987-91; Judge, Alameda County Superior Court, 1992-94; and Associate Justice, First Appellate District, Division Three, 1994-2006.

Justice Corrigan graduated magna cum laude from Holy Names College in 1970 with a BA, and earned her JD from the University of California, Hastings College of the Law, in 1975. She was born in 1948 in Stockton, California.

Associate Justice: Chin, Ming W

Justice Chin was appointed to the California Supreme Court in March of 1996. Prior to this he was: Judge, Superior Court, Alameda County; Associate Justice, First District Court of Appeal, Division Three, San Francisco; Presiding Justice, First District Court of Appeal, Division Three, San Francisco; and Associate Justice, Supreme Court of California.

Justice Chin obtained his JD from the University of San Francisco and was admitted to the California State Bar in 1970. He served two years as a Captain in the United States Army, including a year in Vietnam. He also served as President of the Alameda County Bar Association and is a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of San Francisco. He and his wife, Carol, live in the City of Alameda with their two children, Jennifer and Jason.

Associate Justice: Liu, Goodwin

Justice Goodwin Liu appointed by Governor Brown, Jr on July 26, 2011 and was confirmed by the California Commission on Judicial Appointments on August 31, 2011. Prior to his appointment, Justice Liu was Professor of Law at UC Berkeley School of Law.

Justice Liu grew up in Sacramento and earned a bachelor's degree in biology from Stanford University in 1991. He attended Oxford University on a Rhodes Scholarship, earning a masters degree in philosophy and physiology. Justice Liu graduated from Yale Law School in 1998. He is married to Ann O'Leary and they have two children.

Associate Justice: Moreno, Carlos R

Justice Carlos R Moreno was sworn in as an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of California on October 18, 2001.

Justice Moreno began his career as a Deputy City Attorney with the Los Angeles City Attorney's office before joining the firm of Mori and Ota (now known as Kelley, Drye and Warren) in 1979. In 1986, Governor George Deukmejian appointed Justice Moreno to the Municipal Court, Compton Judicial District. In October 1993, Governor Pete Wilson elevated Justice Moreno to the Los Angeles County Superior Court. In February 1998, he was unanimously confirmed to the United States District Court for the Central District of California by the United States Senate.

Justice Moreno was born November 4, 1948 in Los Angeles. He received a BA in political science from Yale University, 1970; and a JD from Stanford Law School, 1975. Justice Moreno is married to Christine; they have two children, Keiko and Nicholas.

Associate Justice: Werdegar, Kathryn M

Justice Werdegar was appointed to the California State Supreme Court in July 1994. Prior to her appointment she served as: Legal Assistant, United States Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division, 1962-63; Consultant, California State Study Commission on Mental Health Retardation, 1963-64; Associate, UC Berkeley Center for Study of Law and Society, 1965-67; Special Consultant, State Department of Hygiene, 1967-68; Consultant and Author, California College of Trial Judges (now California Judicial College), 1968-71; Attorney, California Continuing Education of the Bar, 1971-78; Associate Dean for Academic and Student Affairs and Associate Professor, University of San Francisco School of Law, 1978-81; Senior Staff Attorney, California First District Court of Appeals, 1981-85; Senior Staff Attorney to Supreme Court Justice Edward Panelli, 1985-91.

Justice Werdegar is a graduate of the University of California School of Law at Berkeley, 1959-61, and earned her JD with distinction from George Washington University School of Law, 1962. She received her undergraduate degree from Wellesley College, 1954-55, and received Honors from the University of California at Berkeley, 1957.

COUNTY GOVERNMENT

Charter and General Law Counties

California counties are political subdivisions of the state. The state Legislature has more control over counties than cities and has created counties to administer and exercise state policies on the local level.

There are two kinds of county government, charter and general law. A charter county may design and adopt a charter that defines its governmental structure. It is also known as “home rule.” Charters generally define the powers and duties of elected and appointed officials and can be compared to a constitution. Charters may be amended or repealed by vote of the people. Adopting a charter, however, does not mean that the state has no influence over local affairs. Charter counties must give way to state law when an issue is a matter of state-wide concern. There are now eleven charter counties in California: Alameda, Butte, Fresno, Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, and Tehama.

Charter counties experience many attempts to revise or repeal their charters. Special interest groups and those wishing to restrict or expand the administrative powers of county officials frequently introduce charter measures to county voters. Many county charters have become long, complicated, and cumbersome through frequent revision. Amending charters has become a very costly exercise for the counties.

Forty-seven California counties are general law counties. They are organized under Article XI of the State Constitution and the Government Code of California. Under the laws, the board of supervisors, the sheriff, and twelve mandated positions must be elected: assessor, auditor, controller, coroner, county clerk, district attorney, license collector, public administrator, recorder, superintendent of schools, tax collector, and treasurer. In addition, the following officials must be appointed: finance officer, fish and game warden, health officer, librarian, road commissioner, surveyor, and veterinarian.

Forms of County Government

There are three forms of county government: commission, appointed county executive, and the dual executive-appointed county executive found in San Francisco.

In the commission form of government several independently elected officials share policy and administrative responsibilities with the elected board of supervisors. Since the supervisors are usually part-time, they rely on the elected and full-time members to often assume dual responsibilities. Such a system is thought to be the most democratic with the election of many department heads. It also combines the executive and legislative functions of government.

Its disadvantages are that many consider it outmoded as it is the oldest form of county government dating back to the eighteenth century and does not meet the needs of a modern population. Because it lacks a chief executive, it is often difficult to establish responsibility within the system. The varied duties of officials within the government also make it difficult for the electorate to determine who’s responsible for unpopular decisions. There also may be a lack of professionalism among officials to cope with the varied demands of modern technology and government.

The appointed executive form of government is the most popular form of government among California counties. In this form the board of supervisors appoints an executive manager who is in charge of the various departments within the government. The supervisors have power to hire and fire the executive, control the budget, and general legislative powers. They also oversee the executive’s administration of the county. The manager, in turn, has responsibility to prepare a budget; hire and fire heads of departments; implement policies of the board of supervisors; and advise the board on personnel matters and public improvement programs.

The advantages of this system of government are that the board of supervisors can spend more time studying policy; the policy making and executive functions are separated; and the government is run by professional managers. Disadvantages of the system are that the administrator is subject to the political whims of the board and is at a disadvantage if there is a split in the board; the administrator can influence and control policy as he or she is privy to more information than the part-time board; and an appointed executive is not as able to lead public opinion on important issues as an elected executive would be.

The elected executive form of government is found in charter counties in California. It is most notable in the city-county of San Francisco where there is an elected executive and an appointed county manager. Its major advantage is its accountability to the electorate and the strong political leadership it affords to meet complex problems facing the county. Its disadvantages are the concentration of power in one executive which opens the possibility for undue influence and corruption.

Alameda County

Alameda County derives its name from the word “alameda”, a place where poplars grow. It was created in 1853 from parts of the Santa Clara and Contra Costa Counties. The county seat was once Alvarado: it was moved in 1856 to San Leandro and to Oakland in 1873.

El Dorado County

El Dorado County is one of the original 27 counties. “El Dorado” is the Spanish term for the golden end of a rainbow. The county earned the name when James Marshall discovered gold at Sutter’s Mill at Coloma in 1847. In 1957, the county seat was relocated from Coloma to Hangtown. In later years, Hangtown was rebranded Placerville, where the county seat remains today.

Kern County

Kern County was organized in 1866 from parts of Tulare and Los Angeles counties. It was named after Edward M Kern, topographer of the 1845-46 Fremont expedition. Its first county seat was Havilah and later moved to Bakersfield in 1874. The county is the center of the state's oil industry and contains sizable farming and aerospace industries.

County Seat: Bakersfield

Mariposa County

In 1806 the Moraga Expedition camped in a place they named Las Mariposas, "the butterflies." Later, the name was shortened to Mariposa and used as the name of one of the State's original 27 counties. Originally it covered one-third of the state, until some land was divided among ten later counties. Its county seat is the town of Mariposa.

Modoc County

Modoc County is comfortably situated in the northeastern corner of California and encompasses 3,944 square miles of beautiful scenery and quaint towns. In the north easternmost section of Modoc County, Surprise Valley contains the cities of Cedarville, Eagleville, Lake City, and Fort Bidwell. The valley, named after prehistoric Lake Surprise, is rich in geological history. The Emigrant Trail passed through Surprise Valley in the 1800s and it is estimated that over 300,000 settlers and gold prospectors passed through the area en route to fortune and failure. Agriculture has long been the mainstay of Modoc County and there is a large population of cattle in the area. Old-fashioned cattle drives into and out of Modoc County still take place across open terrain and along valley byways. Additionally, Modoc County is one of the leading producers of alfalfa hay in the state, which is used locally and sold regionally.

Monterey County

Monterey County was established in 1850 and is one of the 27 original counties. It was named "Monterey" after Count de Monte Rey, a viceroy of New Spain. Its county seat was originally in the town of Monterey but was moved to Salinas in 1873. The city of Monterey was the state's first capital. It is one of the most historic counties in the state.

Sacramento County

Sacramento County was established in 1850 and is one of the original 27 counties. Its name is derived from the river that flows by it, which was named by early Spanish explorers in honor of the Holy Sacrament. Sacramento has always been its county seat and is also the capital of the state.

San Mateo County

San Mateo County was first organized in 1856 and was once part of San Francisco County. In 1886 its borders were changed and resulted in a transfer of a segment of Santa Cruz County into its jurisdiction. Its name is derived from the Spanish name for St Matthew. Its county seat is Redwood City and was once located in Belmont.

Shasta County

Shasta County is one of the original 27 counties of California and once occupied lands that later became Lassen and Modoc counties and parts of Tehama, Plumas and Siskiyou counties. It derives its name from the name of a local Indian tribe. Its county seat was once the town of Shasta and was transferred to Redding in 1888. Its most famous natural landmark is the volcano, Mt Lassen.

County Seat: Redding
 Established: February 18 1850

Solano County

Solano County was one of the original 27 California counties. It was named after a local Indian chief. Its first county seat was at Benicia but in 1858 was moved to Fairfield. Benicia was once the capital of California before the capital was moved to Sacramento. The county's early history centered around pre-statehood Spanish and Mexican ranchos, the port of Benicia, and early institutions of higher learning earning it the title of the "Athens of California."

County Seat: Fairfield

Sonoma County

Sonoma County was one of the original 27 California counties. It derives its name from a local Indian chief baptized by Spanish missionaries. Its county seat was once the town of Sonoma and in 1854 was moved to Santa Rosa. The county has had a long and varied history from the Spanish mission period to the early 19th century: the founding of the only Russian colony in the continental United States in 1812; and the Bear Flag Revolt of 1846. Today its wine industry is of world renown.

Stanislaus County

Stanislaus County was established in 1854 from a part of Tuolumne County. Its first county seat was Adams; later in the same year it was moved to Empire City, then to La Grange in 1855, to Knight's Ferry in 1862 and finally to Modesto in 1872. It derives its name from an Indian chief who was baptized in the name of Saint Stanislaus. Its early history centers around events associated with river and railroad transportation.

Tulare County

Tulare County was established in 1852 out of parts of Los Angeles and Mariposa counties. It derives its name from the Spanish “tulare” meaning rushes. Its first county seat was Woodsville and was moved to Visalia in 1853. Its most famous natural landmark is Sequoia National Park. The county’s early history centered around the trails and roads that passed through the area.

County Seat: Visalia

ORGANIZATION OF CALIFORNIA CITIES

California cities are organized either through the provisions of general state law or local charters. The former are called General Law Cities and the latter, Charter Cities.

General Law Cities

The Majority of California municipalities are general law cities and operate under the provisions of the Constitution applicable to cities and a series of legislative acts known collectively as the Municipal Corporations Act. Under the provisions of the Act, cities are allowed a broad latitude in their organization, operations, and legislative actions. They are able to choose between a mayor-council or city manager form of government. They may pass a wide range of ordinances as long as the ordinances don't conflict with state or federal laws. The cities also have a variety of enumerated powers bestowed on them by the Legislature that cover a majority of the needs of operating a municipality ranging from fire protection to the construction of drains and sewers. Organizing under the general law provisions has proven to be the most accepted course in California because the provisions set down by the Code allow officials of general law cities wide discretion in addressing the needs of their particular cities, making it less likely they would need a local home rule charter.

Charter Cities

Cities with 3,500 inhabitants who wish to address problems unique to their municipalities may adopt home rule charters and tailor their governments to meet special needs.

To obtain a charter they must first draw up the charter, present it to their community for a vote, and if it passes, submit it to the State Legislature for approval.

When gaining its charter, a municipality has broad power to organize its governmental structure and may pass ordinances covering all aspects of municipal affairs not in conflict with state or federal laws.

Chartered City-Counties

Another form of charter government is the combined city-county. Any city with a population of over 50,000 may reorganize as a city-county with the approval of a majority of voters in the city and those of the losing county. The main advantage of such a merger of governments, especially in urban areas, is the consolidation of city and county services. Only one city-county, San Francisco, currently exists in California.

FEDERAL DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES

Agriculture, Department of

The Department of Agriculture works to improve and maintain farm income and to develop and expand markets abroad for agricultural products. The department helps to curb and to cure poverty, hunger, and malnutrition. It works to enhance the environment and to maintain our production capacity by helping landowners protect the soil, water, forest, and other natural resources. Rural development, credit, and conservation programs are key resources for carrying out national growth policies. Department research findings directly or indirectly benefit all Americans. The department, through inspection and grading services, safeguards and ensures standards of quality in the daily food supply.

Farm and Foreign Agricultural Services

The Farm and Foreign Agricultural Services (FFAS) mission area, comprised of the Farm Service Agency, the Foreign Agricultural Service, and the Risk Management Agency, helps keep America's farmers and ranchers in business as they face the uncertainties of weather and markets. They deliver commodity, credit, conservation, disaster, and emergency assistance programs that help improve the stability and strength of the agricultural economy. FFAS contributes to the vitality of the farm sector with programs that encourage the expansion of export markets for U.S. agriculture. In cooperation with the private sector, this mission area offers broad-based crop insurance programs and other risk management tools.

Farm Service Agency

The Farm Service Agency equitably serves all farmers, ranchers, and agricultural partners through the delivery of effective, efficient agricultural programs for all Americans.

Food, Nutrition, and Consumer Services

The Food, Nutrition, and Consumer Services mission area ensures access to nutritious, healthful diets for all Americans. Through food assistance and nutrition education for consumers, FNCS encourages consumers to make healthful food choices. Today, rather than simply providing food, FNCS works to empower consumers with knowledge of the link between diet and health, providing dietary guidance based on research.

Natural Resources and Environment

The goal of the Natural Resources and Environment mission area is to ensure the health of the land through sustainable management. To achieve this goal, NRE agencies work to: prevent damage to natural resources and the environment; restore the resource base and environment to a healthy and sustainable condition where it is impaired; and promote good land management to conserve resource health and ensure the maximum return from investment in conservation. NRE is composed of the Forest Service (FS) and the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS).

Forest Service

The Forest Service has the responsibility of national leadership in forestry. Its mission is to provide a continuing flow of natural resource goods and services to help meet the needs of the nation and to contribute to the needs of the international community.

Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS)

The Natural Resources Conservation Service provides leadership in a partnership effort to help people conserve, maintain, and improve our natural resources and environment. The NRCS is responsible for assisting owners of America's private land with conserving their soil, water, and other natural resources, and also serves local, state, and federal agencies and policymakers as required. NRCS delivers technical assistance based on sound science and suited to a customer's specific needs, with cost shares and financial incentives available in some cases. Most work is done with local partners; partnerships with local conservation districts serves almost every county in the nation, and the Caribbean and Pacific Basin. Participation in the programs is voluntary.

Courts, United States

Website ..... www.uscourts.gov

Court of Appeals, United States

The Courts of Appeal are intermediate appellate courts created to relieve the Supreme Court of considering all appeals in cases originally decided by the federal trial courts. They are empowered to review all final decisions and certain interlocutory decisions of district courts. They are also empowered to review and enforce orders of many federal administrative bodies. The decisions of the Courts of Appeal are final except as they are subject to discretionary review or appeal in the Supreme Court.

Homeland Security, Department of

The creation of the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) is the most significant transformation of the U.S. government since 1947, when Harry S Truman merged the various branches of the U.S. Armed Forces into the Department of Defense to better coordinate the nation's defense against military threats.

DHS represents a similar consolidation, both in style and substance. In the aftermath of the terrorist attacks against America on September 11th, 2001, President George W Bush decided 22 previously disparate domestic agencies needed to be coordinated into one department to protect the nation against threats to the homeland.

The new department's first priority is to protect the nation against further terrorist attacks. Component agencies will analyze threats and intelligence, guard our borders and airports, protect our critical infrastructure, and coordinate the response of our nation for future emergencies.

Besides providing a better-coordinated defense of the homeland, DHS is also dedicated to protecting the rights of American citizens and enhancing public services, such as natural disaster assistance and citizenship services, by dedicating offices to these important missions.

Federal Bureau of Prisons

The Federal Bureau of Prisons protects society by carrying out the judgments of the federal courts, providing confinement services to committed offenders and program opportunities to all inmates who qualify and who wish to participate. The Bureau's duties include the responsibility to maintain secure, safe, and humane correctional institutions for individuals placed in the care and custody of the Attorney General; develop and operate correctional programs that seek a balanced application of the concepts of punishment, deterrence, incapacitation, and rehabilitation; and provide assistance to local correctional agencies.

U.S. Trustee Program

The United States Trustee Program is a component of the Department of Justice that seeks to promote the efficiency and protect the integrity of the Federal bankruptcy system. To further the public interest in the just, speedy and economical resolution of cases filed under the Bankruptcy Code, the Program monitors the conduct of bankruptcy parties and private estate trustees, oversees related administrative functions, and acts to ensure compliance with applicable laws and procedures. It also identifies and helps investigate bankruptcy fraud and abuse in coordination with United States Attorneys, the FBI, and other law enforcement agencies.

HISTORY OF CALIFORNIA

Native American Period

Evidence of Native American residence in California dating back three to four thousand years ago has been found in the unearthing of numerous kitchen shell middens along the California coast.

The Spanish explorers in the 17th and 18th centuries found scattered bands of Indians living throughout the entire region of California. These bands lived a simple life of gathering, fishing, and hunting. Because of their geographical isolation from each other, they were organized into simple groups and villages based on family relationships rather than larger tribal units. It has been estimated that the Indian population ranged from between 133,000 to 300,000 when Spanish exploration began.

There was much variety in the customs and cultures of the isolated villages and groups, especially in the area of language. More than twenty-one language families with over one hundred dialects existed. Only the Yuman tribes along the Colorado River and the Hupa in the far northwest spoke Indian languages from outside the region.

The Europeans found the Indians living in small settlements containing huts covered with materials native to the regions in which they lived. In the north, huts were built of light planks, poles, and bark; in the south, of brush or thatch; and in the Sacramento valley, sod was used extensively. The focal and ceremonial center of these settlements was the sweat houses. These could be compared to saunas where individuals bathed in steam from heated rocks and then plunged into cool water.

Indian groups were headed by chiefs with only advisory powers. Also of importance were Shamans, male or female, who cured illness and consulted with spirits through dreams. Throughout the region the rites of religious cults centered around spirit dancing and song cycles, and the hallucinogenic jimson weed was used. Warfare was rare and consisted mainly of small feuds between kin or local groups.

The economic life of the California Indians was simple and based on the gathering of acorns from the large stands of oak trees in the central and southern valleys and hills. They gathered grass seeds, berries, roots, and nuts. Grasshoppers and caterpillars were eaten. Small game was trapped with snares, sticks, and nets, and larger animals were hunted with bows and arrows, pits and traps. Without a knowledge of pottery making, basketry was perfected to serve for cooking utensils, storage, and winnowing of grains. The northern coastal Indians, in addition to hunting and gathering, engaged in fishing, while the Indians along the Colorado River developed an agricultural and gathering economy.

The arrival of Europeans in California marked the beginning of the end for the Indian way of life. Missionaries backed by the armed might of the military herded the Indians into mission settlements where they were used as agricultural workers. Resentment against the mission system led to a number of Indian revolts which were suppressed by the military with bloody results.

The independence of Mexico brought the end of the mission system. The Indian population, although free, was in such a degraded state after years of peonage that few were able to pursue their native way of life. They often worked on ranchos for little or no pay and died off by the thousands from disease, liquor, and starvation. The Indian population in 1852 was estimated to have fallen to 85,000. The American period was no less a disaster for the Indians as they became fair game for the growing number of settlers. Any Indian retaliations for outrages committed on them were met with wholesale massacres. Indian wars continued from 1851 to 1873. By 1910 the Indian population was estimated to be 16,371.

A system of Indian reservations was inaugurated by the U.S. Government in 1853. The typical government policy of forcing Indians to adopt white ways led to a further disintegration of aboriginal culture. Over the years, the reservations were continually restricted in size as their more valuable land was taken from them. Those existing today are located on unproductive lands of little economic value.

The Spanish and Mexican Periods

For two centuries Spain had sporadically conducted a number of exploratory expeditions to Lower and Upper California. Spanish settlement of Upper California had its beginnings in 1769. The king of Spain, to counteract Russian and English activities on the Pacific coast, ordered the Viceroy to rediscover and settle the harbors of San Diego and Monterey. To accomplish this goal, both sea and land expeditions were sent out. The sea expedition, under the command of Juan Perez, landed in San Diego Bay on April 11, 1769. The land expedition, accompanied by Father Junipero Serra, reached San Diego a month later.

Eventually a chain of missions and settlements was established from San Diego to Solano north of San Francisco. The missions were a series of outposts spaced a day's journey apart and were sustained by the labor of Indian neophytes. As years passed, small settlements grew around the missions and presidios. Later, independent towns such as San Jose (1777) and Los Angeles (1781) sprang up. News of the lush California pastures brought colonists from Mexico to set up ranchos and start a cattle industry. Spanish rule, although based on military conquest, remained weak. Only mild protests met the Russian establishment of Fort Ross while American, British, and French ships routinely ignored the Spanish prohibitions against entering the California ports.

Mexico gained independence from Spain in 1821, and by 1822 a transfer of authority to Mexican officials in California had taken place. One of the first results was the secularization of the missions. The mission lands were taken over by ranchers and the missions became parish churches or deteriorated over the years. Another result of Mexican independence was constant friction between the Mexican government and the original settlers, known as Californios. The Californios never fully accepted Mexican rule. As California was a vast distance from Mexico City, they were often able to defy the central government. For the next two decades there were frequent revolts by the locals against the appointed governors, creating an atmosphere of political instability.

Adding to the ferment in California was the impact of the role that American traders played in the economic life of its residents and, of more importance, the influx of American trappers and settlers into the region. One of the most important items of trade with the Americans was cattle hides. California ranchos depended on the Yankee merchants to purchase and ship them to manufacturers in New England and Great Britain. The residents became accustomed to purchasing luxury goods sold on the ships, as there were few retail outlets in the region, in defiance of the Mexican government. Americans were thought, by the Mexican government, to play too important a role in the economic life of the region.

The arrival of Jedediah Smith and a party of armed trappers in 1826 and later, the Patties, was the precursor to an influx of American settlers, beginning with the Bidwell-Bartleson company in 1841. The Californios began to suspect that the Americans eventually intended to occupy California. These suspicions were realized in October of 1842 when a U.S. fleet under Commodore Thomas Catesby, believing that Mexico and the United States were at war, seized the port of Monterey. The commodore apologized upon learning he was in error and withdrew.

The American Period

Events leading to American occupation of California began to play themselves out. In 1846, John C Fremont, under cover of carrying out a topographical survey of the region, raised the American flag in the Salinas Valley. Fremont retreated to Oregon after a government show of force. Meanwhile, at Sonoma in June of the same year, William B Ide led the Bear Flag revolt, which created the short-lived California Republic. Ide was later joined by Fremont. By this time the U.S. and Mexico were officially at war, and a U.S. fleet led by Commodore John Sloat raised the American flag in Monterey and claimed California for the United States. In the south, Los Angeles was captured by Commodore Robert Stockton. The Californios, after their initial setbacks, managed to recapture Los Angeles and San Diego; however, they were finally defeated by a force of Americans composed of army and navy units and settlers led by Colonel Stephen Kearny, at the Battles of San Gabriel and of La Mesa. California was officially ceded to the United States in the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo of 1848.

Establishing a viable civil government in the newly acquired land proved difficult as the slavery and anti-slavery factions in Congress prevented the federal government from determining how California should fit into the Union. For a time it was governed by a combination of military, Mexican, and American Law. In 1849, residents, on their own initiative, created a constitution which set up a governmental framework and prepared the way for statehood. On September 9, 1850, California gained statehood as a free state.

Prior to becoming a state, gold had been discovered in California, at Coloma, in January of 1848. When the news reached the east, gold seekers from around the world converged on the diggings. The population of California grew from 15,000 in 1847 to 92,000 in 1850. The main port of entry for the “49ers” was San Francisco, which almost overnight became a boisterous boom town. Businesses of all varieties sprang up to provide commodities and services to the miners. As government was practically non-existent, lawlessness flourished and became so prevalent that vigilance committees were formed in 1851 and 1856 to drive out the gangs of outlaws and corrupt politicians.

By 1854 many of the gold fields had given out and Californians sought greater stability as farmers. Gaining title to lands for agriculture became a problem as the U.S. Government had promised to honor the Spanish and Mexican land grants that encompassed most of the arable lands. Americans took up the practice of squatting on the ranchos. This led to riots and bloodshed and forced the federal government to survey the state, form a land commission, and adjudicate the disputes. The result was the breakup of the Californio’s ranchos and the impoverishment of many of the former owners.

During the Civil War period, Californians had mixed loyalties. Pro-Southern Democrats controlled the legislature in 1860 but split the next year, allowing Abraham Lincoln to carry the state. A plot to seize federal installations was put down, and when the war began in 1861, California took the Union side. Members of the California Regiment took part in actions against Confederate forces in Arizona and New Mexico.

The Civil War period also saw the authorization of a transcontinental railroad by President Lincoln in 1862. A California company, the Central Pacific, was designated to build the western end of the railroad. By 1865 a race began to complete the railroad between the Central Pacific in the west and the Union Pacific in the east. Teams of Chinese workers toiled over the Sierras while thousands of discharged Irish soldiers labored from the east. The two teams met on May 10, 1869 at Promontory, Utah.

The 1870s were difficult times for California. The gold diggings of the 40s and 50s had given out and mining activities were now concentrated in the hands of wealthy investors. Land claims were still in a state of flux. Problems of race flared up frequently. Unemployment was widespread. High freight and interest rates stifled economic growth. Added to these problems was the 1875 collapse of the Bank of California which undermined the entire financial structure of the state. Making matters worse was a continual flow of new settlers brought about by the completion of the railroad. Attempting to solve some of their problems, the people of the state created a new “Workingman’s Constitution” which limited the power of the legislature and contained harsh anti-Chinese language.

The last two decades of the 1800s, in addition to more boom and bust, were marked by promotions and bogus land schemes. Boosters and land speculators flooded the east with advertisements and brochures touting the state’s climate and resources. Land prices soared on everything from farmland to empty deserts, only to fall again, leaving in their wake bankrupt individuals and businesses, and hard times for the 1890s.

Twentieth Century California

The state entered the new century on a more optimistic note. Despite the cycles of boom and bust experienced in the 19th century, there was an underlying tide of solid economic developments that had the potential to usher in a new era for the state. The citrus industry became a staple of California agriculture. Oil discoveries and refining positioned the state for the new age of the combustion engine. Hydroelectric power and water projects were spurs to both manufacturing and agriculture.

The earthquake of 1906 devastated San Francisco with both the force of the quake and the fires that followed. The rapid rebuilding of the city afterwards reflected the dynamic nature of the city’s population as well as that of the state. There was also a determination among the citizens of the state to continue the reform of their government.

Californians continued their long standing prejudice against Asians, or the “Yellow Peril” as it was known then. Japanese farmers were successfully becoming the state’s most productive farmers, causing resentment and envy among non-Asian farmers. In 1913, the state legislature passed an Alien Land Act that prohibited Asians from owning land or leasing it for more than three years. While the Japanese farmers were often able to evade the law by passing land to their American-born children, the resentment grew. In 1924, Congress was persuaded to forbid Japanese immigration entirely. In 1941, under the cloak of national security, the Japanese in California were sent to relocation camps and lost most of their holdings.

At the beginning of the century, water began to assume great prominence in the state’s development and politics. The burgeoning population of Southern California and the creation of a new agricultural mecca created a demand for water unable to be met in such a semi-arid region. The natural water supply was quickly depleted. New sources of water were sought in the Sierra Nevada Mountains northwest of Los Angeles. In one of the most ambitious engineering feats of the new century, water was piped 230 miles from the Owens Valley to Los Angeles.

The San Francisco region was also reaching the limits of its water supply. After a long and bitter feud with conservationists led by John Muir, the Hetch Hetchy project was initiated, resulting in a massive dam that inundated one of the state's most beautiful valleys, and the construction of a 155-mile aqueduct to the city. Water became an issue throughout the state. The U.S. Bureau of Reclamation broke ground with the Imperial Irrigation Project in 1911. Plans to harness the Colorado River were put in place in the late 1920s, resulting in a quadrupling of water to Southern California. The Central Valley Project was initiated in the 1940s with the building of Friant Dam to intercept waters of the San Joaquin River. The great Shasta Dam north of Redding tapped the Sacramento River and Folsom Dam - the American River. Together the dams provided water for farms throughout the Central Valley. The latter half of the century saw the creation of the State Water Project: a series of dams, aqueducts, and reservoirs providing water to the San Joaquin Valley and as far south as the Santa Barbara area.

While the early years of the century were characterized by boom and growth, the 1930s saw depression and hardship for the state's residents. A rush of immigrants from the "Dust Bowl" states of Oklahoma and Arkansas exacerbated the situation and attempts were made to block their entry into the state or limit the opportunity of those who did enter to find employment. The war years of the 1940s saw the boom times return and a new wave of immigration to the state to work in the war plants and shipyards in the Bay Area and Southern California.

Since the end of World War II, the population of California has more than doubled, reaching 32 million. As it entered the 21st Century, California's economy ranked with that of major nations and it has become a trend setter in fields ranging from highway construction to electronics, computer technology, and motion-picture production.

Department of General Services

Procurement Division

707 Third Street, 2nd Floor
West Sacramento, CA 95605 .....(916) 375-4400
Toll free.....(800) 559-5529
FAX.....(916) 375-4613
Email.....custserv@dgs.ca.gov
Website.....www.pd.dgs.ca.gov

The Procurement Division serves as the purchasing function for many State agencies and departments and awards contracts on their behalf. In this capacity, the Procurement Division buys virtually everything ranging from office equipment (computers, copiers, furniture, etc.), to fencing, fertilizer, and machinery for farms, parks, and forests. The Procurement Division, however, does not contract for public works, construction, or repairs, and with the exception of certain acquisitions, personal or technical services, rentals or leases. Most such contracts and leases are awarded by the individual State agencies that require the services involved. The Procurement Division delegates procurement authority to certain agencies and departments, in which case those bodies are able to place contracts on their own behalf.

The Procurement Division focuses its in-depth knowledge base toward developing long-term purchase agreements and innovative acquisition methods for the benefit of all State agencies and departments as well as local government agencies and departments. As a part of its responsibilities for delegating procurement authority to State agencies and departments, the Procurement Division is the State's central point of responsibility for ensuring that all State acquisitions are in compliance with regulatory and statutory requirements.

How the State Buys

With the exception of the State's using "Best Value" techniques to determine source selection for Information Technology (IT) competitions for large-scale system integration projects and IT services, in most instances the State awards contracts to the low bidder. The techniques and procedures vary with the size and type of procurement, but all of the State's procurement procedures are designed to produce maximum competition; and California statutes are designed to make it easy for potential suppliers to submit competitive bids.

For Materials, Supplies, and Equipment:

If the procurement is estimated to be valued at less than $25,000, the responsible procuring agency or department may accept bids by telephone or written quotation.

If the procurement is estimated to be valued at $25,000 or more, the responsible procuring agency or department must solicit sealed bids or proposals. The solicitation will include special bid package forms that the bidder must complete, sign, and submit with the bid. The solicitation will also specify the address where the sealed bid is to be submitted and the deadline (ie, the date and time) by which the bid must be submitted.

For Information Technology Goods and Services:

If the procurement is anticipated to exceed $500,000 in value, the responsible procuring agency or department must solicit sealed bids, and the procedure for bidders to submit such bids is the same as described in the above paragraph.

Public Contract Code Section 12125 enables State agencies and departments to apply a variety of techniques to determine "Best Value" in evaluating bids, including competitive negotiation, alternative procurement methods and performance-based contracting. In such instances, the award is not made to the "low bidder," but to the supplier whose proposal represents the best value for the State.

Contractors and Suppliers

Legislative changes, effective January 2001, have simplified the method in which suppliers match what the State buys with the services and products a particular firm offers. This simplified method uses the California State Contracts Register (CSCR) and the CSCR Subscription Outreach Service (SOS) to provide prospective contractors and suppliers with advertised opportunities. This exciting free alternative provides subscribers with automatic email or fax notification of the CSCR advertised opportunities.

Commitment to Small Business

The Procurement Division provides small business firms with equitable opportunities to compete for procurement awards for which they qualify. The State also provides for giving preference in the bid evaluation to a "certified" small business firm for a procurement award if the certified small business firm's bid is no more than five percent higher (up to a minimum of $50,000) than the bids submitted by firms that are not certified small businesses.

Although it is not mandatory for a small business firm to be certified, if your firm is a small business, obtain certification, because in addition to your becoming a pre-qualified supplier, you can take advantage of the five-percent preference.

Information.....(800) 559-5529

The California State Contracts Register (CSCR)

The Procurement Division of the General Services Department publishes CSCR, an advertisement source for State construction and service contracting opportunities. State law requires agencies to advertise their construction and service contracting opportunities of $5,000 or more and commodity purchases of $25,000 or more in the CSCR.

Each issue of the CSCR contains an average of 400 potential contracts, including local government and special districts, listed within contract categories. Each advertisement contains key contract information and the contact agency or person to obtain a full solicitation package.

Disabled Veteran Business Enterprise (DVBE) Certification

The OSBCR also certifies disabled veteran business enterprises for the State's Participation Program. Public Contract Code (PCC) 10115 requires all State agencies to award at least three percent of their total annual contract dollars to suppliers that are certified as a disabled veteran business enterprise (DVBE). This goal applies to a State agency's overall contracting program; therefore, State agencies have the discretion to apply the DVBE participation goal to individual contracts. Accordingly, the OSBC is required by law to meet the disabled veteran business enterprise goal and they ask their suppliers to assist them in meeting that goal.

When the goal is applied to an individual contract, the agency's solicitation for bid will state that, as a condition for a bidder to be considered for the award of any contract that may result from the solicitation, the bidder's response to the solicitation must indicate that the bidder will either:

1. Commit to awarding at least 3% of the total value of the contract to the certified DVBE(s); or
2. If the bidder is a certified DVBE, the bidder commits to using its resources alone or with another certified DVBE(s) to perform at least 3% of the total value of the contract; or
3. Demonstrate through verifiable, documented evidence that the bidder made a good-faith effort to perform the outreach necessary to identify, solicit, and consider potential DVBE participants; or
4. Submit with the bid a "Notice of Approved Business Utilization Plan."

The Most Effective Way to Sell to the State

There's no substitute for a personal call to one of the Procurement Division's offices (in Sacramento and Fullerton); call to find out which State agency may need your firm's product or service. Buyers can advise your firm as to whom to contact to discuss your firm's product or service. Key points to remember: be competitive; read the solicitation for bid carefully; don't forget the fine print, and make certain your firm can comply with all of the requirements before bidding; if the solicitation is unclear or other complications arise, contact the buyer as soon as possible, don't wait until the date of the bid opening; spend wisely: what your firm spends on designs, demonstrations, layouts etc, does not guarantee a sale.

The Procurement Division reviews agency-prepared specifications carefully to eliminate requirements that restrict competition unnecessarily. Generally, procurement will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder that meets these objective specifications, this does not always mean the "lowest bid".

If your firm provides assistance to the procuring agency in determining the agency's needs, your firm's assistance cannot be considered as a factor in final source selection. The Procurement Division recommends that, if your firm is called upon to provide such pre-purchase service, your firm should always ask the requesting State agency or department to list your firm as a "Reference Supplier" on the applicable procurement requisition. The inclusion of your firm as a Reference Supplier will assure that the Procurement Division will send your firm a solicitation for the requirement.

Bonding and Sureties

While there may be instances where bonds, payment bonds, or performance bonds are required by statute or policy, the State is committed to using bonds only when specifically justified. The State recognizes that bonding is a possible impediment to a new or small business enterprise; therefore, the requirement for bonding is not imposed on a regular basis. The solicitation will indicate when a bond is required.

CAL-Card Streamlines Process

CAL-Card, the State's credit-card program designed to facilitate processing small buys, is used by most State agencies and departments and local agencies and departments. The card permits State agencies and departments to purchase goods and services valued up to $25,000 per transaction. In addition to reducing the paperwork normally associated with having to process separate procurement documents for the thousands of small buys the State awards every year, the card also facilitates rapid payment by the State to those suppliers who are set up to accept the card. Prompt payment is particularly important to small business firms.

California Multiple Award Schedule (CMAS) Adds Flexibility

The State of California has established Multiple Award Schedules in response to Assembly Member (now Senator) Richard Polanco's Assembly Bill 1727 and Public Contract Code Sections 10290.1 and 12101.5. The State is currently establishing agreements with suppliers that offer products and/or services that exist on current Federal General Services Administration (GSA) Multiple Award Schedules and other multiple award schedules. State agencies and departments may procure products and/or services from CMAS by issuing a Contract/Delegation Purchase Order (Std 65) directly to the supplier without having to go through the solicitation process. For information, visit the CMAS Homepage or contact:

Master Agreements (MA)

DGS bids large-volume contracts called statewide Master Agreements for services and consulting services that many departments use. MA contracts can be single or multiple awards based on competitive bids. The state recommends that businesses market and sell their product value to the various State agencies. The State advertises MAs in the CSCR. For more information on MA advertisements, visit the CSCR homepage.

 The Procurement Division advertises most MAs which are available for review upon request. For more information regarding MAs, contact the Procurement Division.

Small Business Development Centers

The California Small Business Development Center (SBDC) Program was formally established in 1988 in the Office of Small Business under the California Technology, Trade, and Commerce Agency (CTTCA) to spur the expansion and development of California small businesses. To help entrepreneurs get a solid start, a network of locally based centers provide one-stop business counseling, training, and links to other economic development resources in all California counties. Major funding for the network is provided by CTTCA, the U.S. Small Business Administration, and the Chancellor's Office of California Community Colleges.

There are numerous Small Business Development Centers in the State of California. Please contact the main office (as listed below) or visit the Small Business Development Centers of California at californiasbdc.org.

DOING BUSINESS WITH THE U.S. GOVERNMENT

The U.S. Small Business Administration

The United States government is the world's largest buyer of goods and services. One of the major responsibilities of the Small Business Administration (SBA) is to see that small business concerns obtain a fair share of this vast government market.

Commerce, including selling to the federal government, has changed drastically in a very short time. Most government bidding today is now conducted on-line. In reflecting this change we have included telephone numbers of relevant offices and website addresses. Websites are listed where available.

The U.S. Small Business Administration is an independent federal agency established by congress to assist, counsel, support, and protect the interest of small business concerns and to assist them in their start-up and growth. The SBA acts as a prime contractor and enters into contracts with other Federal government agencies. In its role as prime contractor, SBA awards subcontracts to certified 8(a) companies.

How To Get Certified as a Small Business

Through the 8(a) Business Development Program, the SBA assists small businesses owned and controlled by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals. Businesses must be able to provide a product or service that is purchased by an agency of the federal government. Since many government agencies have different mission requirements which affect purchasing needs, businesses are encouraged to contact the Minority Business staff for more information.

The 8(a) Program

To seek certification with the 8(a) program, contact the SBA district office serving your area. An SBA representative will answer general questions over the telephone and set up an appointment with you to go over the various application forms.

How to Get an 8(a) Contract with the General Services Administration

1. Identify the opportunity.
2. Communicate your interest to the appropriate buying activity. It is recommended you send a courtesy copy to your local Business Service Center.
3. Have an SBA Business Opportunity Specialist send a search letter to GSA. The search letter should identify the company marketing GSA.

How Do I Know If I Am a Small Business?

To determine if you are a small business, you need to refer to the table of size standards found in the Federal Acquisition Regulations (FAR).

Website .....www.acquisition.gov/far/
If the size of a business exceeds the size standard for its overall industry group, it may still be a small business for the specific North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) industry in that group. Some industries have higher size standards than the general one for the industry group. A table of size standards by NAICS industry is on SBA's size standards website.

Website .....www.sba.gov/size

What is an SIC Code and Why Do I Need One?

The Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) code is a statistical classification standard underlying all establishment-based federal economic statistics classified by industry. The SIC code is used to promote comparisons of establishment data describing various facets of the U.S. economy. The classification covers the entire field of economic activities and defines industries in accordance with the composition and structure of the economy. It is revised periodically to reflect the economy's changing industrial organization.

Website .....www.osha.gov/cgi-bin/sic/sicser5
Federal agencies use the SIC code (a 4 digit code) to determine your size of business, by industry.

NOTE: At the federal level, a business can self-certify for either the size of business, or status (eg, minority, women-owned, or economically disadvantaged).

Programs for Small, Minority, or Women-Owned Businesses

Micro-Purchases

Purchases below $2,500 are defined as micro-purchases, and may be made without obtaining competition, if the contracting officer determines the price is reasonable. These acquisitions are not subject to small business reservation requirements of the Small Business Act or the Buy American Act. They allow government Visa Impact cardholders to make small purchases for a wide range of commodities and services.

Simplified Acquisitions Threshold

Purchases between $2,500 and $100,000 are within the Simplified Acquisitions Threshold, and are reserved for small business concerns unless the contracting officer is unable to obtain offers from two or more small businesses.

Sub-Contracting

Pursuant to the Small Business Act, large business prime contractors receiving federal contracts valued at $500,000 or over $1 million for construction are required to establish plans and goals for subcontracting with small, minority, and women-owned business firms. General Services Administration provides detailed information which is available online. The information serves as an aid to small business, minority, and women-owned business concerns seeking subcontracting opportunities with GSA prime contractors.

Website . . . . . <http://www.sba.gov/about-offices-content/1/2986>

NOTE: The Small Business Act requires a minimum 5% goal for women-owned small business concerns on applicable prime and subcontracts. Prime and sub-contractors have an obligation to make a “good faith effort” to meet the 5% goal of subcontracting opportunities to women-owned businesses. You can market directly to these contractors using GSA’s Subcontracting Directory.

How to Market to the Federal Government

Identify the appropriate buying agency/office

Market only to those agencies using your type of product or service. This can be accomplished by checking the Federal Procurement Data System, which summarizes who’s buying what, where, and from whom.

Information . . . . . (703) 872-8621

FAX . . . . . (703) 872-8598

Website . . . . . www.fpds.gov

Another useful marketing tool is the U.S. Government Manual, which you can purchase from the U.S. government bookstore website (as listed below). It contains the type of information you will want to know about a potential customer. It will also help you determine the agency to which you should direct your marketing efforts.

Website . . . . . <http://bookstore.gpo.gov>

Identify the buying agency’s procurement officer

Once you have identified whether an agency uses your product or service, contact the agency’s procurement officer and find out what contract opportunities there are and how you can go about finding future opportunities. Keep in mind that the best form of communication between a procurement official and a vendor may be by email.

Identify how the agency buys your product or service

You will find that depending on the product or service, buying procedures vary from agency to agency. Contact the agency’s regional procurement office and discuss where your product or service fits into their buying program.

System for Award Management (SAM)

The System for Award Management is a Federal Government free website. SAM consolidates the capabilities of the former federal procurement systems: Central Contractor Registration (CCR), Federal Agency Registration (FedReg), Online Representations and Certifications Application (ORCA), Excluded Parties List System (EPLS) and the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance into one new system. If you had formerly registered with the CCR, a new registration is not required unless changes need to be made.

Website . . . . . www.sam.gov

Federal Acquisition Computer Network (FACNET)

The Federal Acquisition Computer Network or FACNET is the federal government’s procurement process using Electronic Data Interchange (EDI). Vendors must be EDI capable and on line with a Value Added Network (VAN) contractor in order to use the Simplified Acquisition Procedure (SAP), for procurements between $2,500 and $100,000 as required by the Federal Acquisition Streamlining Act.

Small Business Innovation Research

The Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) program is a competitive programs that encourages domestic small business to engage in Federal research and research and development for the purpose of commercialization. SBIR supports scientific excellence and technological innovation through the investment of Federal research funds.

GSA SmartPay

GSA SmartPay is the federal government’s charge-card program, replacing the International Merchant Purchase Authorization Card (IMPAC), American Express Travel Card, and the U.S. Fleet Services Card.

Products issued include purchase, travel, fleet, and integrated cards. The five issuers of SmartPay cards are Bank of America, Bank One, Citibank, Mellon Bank, and U.S. Bank. Cards can be either VISA or MasterCard.

PUBLIC SECTOR CALIFORNIA INDEX

How to use the Index

The index has been arranged by the following categories: subject matter; major departments and branches of government; counties; municipalities; and elected and appointed officials. If you are unable to locate a subject or heading, try a more general, rather than specific heading.

To help locate a particular listing, there are mini indexes preceding each major section. A mini index at the beginning of each elected officials chapter conveys the party designation as well as the district number of elected officials.

Only the major branches, boards and/or departments for each state or federal department are indexed. For complete listings, consult the principal entry in the body of the book.

We have done our best to choose entries that reflect the needs of the Public Sector California readership but we do not presume to have included all possible references. Please direct any suggestions or comments to the editor: editor@public-sectors.com.
